A black and white photograph of Yves Montand and Edith Piaf. They are both smiling and looking towards the camera. They appear to be in the back of a convertible car, with the metal frame of the car visible in the foreground. The background is blurred, suggesting an outdoor setting with other people.

The image features a complex background of a particle detector pattern, likely a bubble chamber or cloud chamber. It consists of numerous small, bright red and white spots arranged in a grid-like pattern that appears to be receding into the distance, creating a strong sense of perspective. The overall color palette is dominated by reds and whites, with a dark, almost black, background. In the center of the image, the word "FIN" is written in a bold, yellow, sans-serif font. The letters are slightly shadowed, giving them a three-dimensional appearance as if they are floating or resting on a surface within the detector's field of view.
