Středověký původ západního individualismu

V „The Failed Empire“ jsem tvrdil, že středověké papežství je zodpovědné za selhání Evropy dosáhnout politické jednoty pod německým vedením ve středověku. Nepopíral jsem, že „trvalá absence hegemonického impéria“ a „konkurenční fragmentace moci“ měly pozitivní účinky, jak tvrdil Walter Scheidel v knize Útěk z Říma: Selhání impéria a cesta k prosperitě. (Princeton UP, 2019).

Scheidelova 600stránková demonstrace mě nepřesvědčila, ale i kdyby byla pravdivá, jeho teze v žádném případě neodporuje mojím. Je to jen jiný úhel pohledu. Z pohledu dnešní světové geopolitiky nelze popřít, že Evropa je totální selhání a nemůže se ani začít srovnávat nebo soutěžit s novými „civilizačními státy“, abych použil kategorii Christophera Cokera. O tom, že papežství má chválit nebo za to vinit, lze sotva pochybovat.

Zde budu tvrdit, že středověké papežství je zodpovědné za stvoření moderního západního jedince, člověka bez kořenů posedlého vlastní spásou, identitou a seberealizací. Nebudu popírat, že západní individualismus vytvořil výjimečnou sklizeň génů ve všech oblastech lidské kultury a rozpoutal nebývalý výron kreativity. To je, myslím, nepopíratelné. A možná to stálo za to. Jednoduše budu tvrdit, že patologická – a nakažlivá – fáze, do které dnes západní individualismus dospěl, je konečným výsledkem programu desocializace sepsaného římským papežstvím. Vypůjčit si z pozoruhodné knihy Josepha Henricha Nejpodivnější lidé na světě, ke kterému se vrátím: „podkopáváním intenzivního příbuzenství církevní politika v oblasti manželství a rodiny postupně osvobozovala jednotlivce od odpovědnosti, závazků a výhod jejich klanů a domů.“ Po mnoho generací toto sociální inženýrství propojilo naši jedinečně individualistickou psychologii.

Může to znít neintuitivně vinit křesťanství ze ztráty příbuzenských svazků, protože praktikující křesťané jsou dnes obránci rodinných hodnot na Západě. Je to kvůli paradoxu, že křesťanství je revoluční i konzervativní. Na začátku to bylo revoluční a na konci konzervativní. Všechna zavedená náboženství jsou konzervativní, to je jejich hlavní společenská funkce. Ale konzervatismus západního křesťanství je o zachování té malé příbuzenské struktury, kterou nezničilo ve své revoluční fázi: nukleární rodinu, poslední krok před úplným sociálním rozpadem.

Zde prezentovaná teorie se liší od té, která obviňuje křesťanství ze zrušení bílé rasy, jejímž nejradikálnějším zastáncem byl zesnulý Revilo Oliver (1908-1994). Napsal v Christianity and the Survival of the West :

Árijci po celém světě vykazují neklamné příznaky imbecility nebo latentního přání smrti. ... Nejpravděpodobnější primární příčinou je podle mého názoru křesťanství, náboženství, které je negací života a je jakýmsi rasovým „AIDS“, které během dvou tisíciletí postupně oslabovalo a nakonec zničilo imunitní systém naší rasy, tzn. své vědomí své rasové identity.

S touto teorií mám dva nesouhlasy. Za prvé si myslím, že zaměření na „rasovou identitu“ – nebo její nedostatek – je nesprávně zaměřeno. Organická soudržnost společnosti začíná na úrovni širší rodiny nebo klanu, a pouze pokud jsou sociální vazby na této úrovni po dlouhou dobu narušeny, rasová identita – nebo to, co Ludwig Gumplowicz elegantněji nazval „syngenní pocit“, ta instinktivní důvěrnost s těmi, kteří se nám podobají – se nakonec zhroutí. Imunitní deficit zasahuje sociální organismus na úrovni rodiny, nikoli na úrovni rasy. Obrana důstojnosti a práv bílých lidí je cenná politická věc, ale rasová identita je sama o sobě velmi slabým sociálním tmelem. Myslím, že to, co potřebujeme, abychom znovu vybudovali náš imunitní systém, je získat zpět to, co konkrétně zničilo západní křesťanství: „intenzivní příbuzenství“ (Henrichův termín).

Za druhé, křesťanství nevedlo ke stejnému rozpadu příbuzenství na Východě a na Západě. Během toho, co Robert I. Moore nazval „první evropskou revolucí“ (asi 970-1215), došlo na Západě ke kvalitativnímu skoku. V dalekosáhlém projektu přetváření společnosti řídilo papežství vytrvalý a vícesměrný útok na příbuzenské sociální struktury římsko-germánského obyvatelstva, které řecko-slovanské populace nesnesly ve stejné míře.

Tím nechci říct, že by východní církve byla k příbuzenstvu zvláště přátelská. Teoreticky je křesťanství ze své podstaty individualistické a znehodnocuje pokrevní pouta: pouze Ježíšova krev zachraňuje a spasení je pro jednotlivce samotného. Ale převzetí římské církve clunianskou mnišskou stranou, která nemá v pravoslavné období, znamená, že fenomén popsáný Louisem Dumontem, normativní účinek mimozemského jednotlivce opouštějícího rod a rodinu, byl v římskokatolické tradici akutnější.[5] Krev byla jedinečně zředěna katolickým křtem. To vysvětluje, proč intenzivní příbuzenství lépe odolávalo ve východní Evropě, zejména v jihoslovanských zemích, kde „v devatenáctém století byly pozorovány zadrugy [rozvětvené rodiny] čítající více než 80 lidí. Nebylo to samozřejmě pravidlem, ale domácí skupiny o 20 až 30 členech nebyly v té době ničím neobvyklým.“[6]

Není ale protestantismus více individualistický než katolicismus? To určitě je. Moderní individualismus vděčí za mnohé luteránům a ještě více kalvinistům. Ale protestantský individualismus mohl zapustit kořeny pouze na sociální a psychologické půdě, již po staletí živil katolický individualismus. Příklad individualismu od pravoslaví přes katolicismus k protestantismu by vyžadoval zvláštní studii. Zaměřím se zde pouze na politiku středověkého papežství proti pokrevním svazkům a její dlouhodobé důsledky.

Předkřesťanský společenský organismus

V celé Eurasii a na Středním východě žili naši předkřesťanští předkové v klanových společnostech. Kromě zdrojů, o kterých se zmiňuji v „Vyved' své mrtvé!“ na toto téma doporučuji nedávnou knihu Guillaumea Durochera The Ancient Ethnostate: Biopolitical Thought in Classical Greece . Cituji z jeho četby homérské antropologie:

Mezi aristokratickou vládnoucí třídou, se kterou se Homér potýká, je příbuzenství základním základem identity a solidarity, a tedy jak osobního, tak politického jednání. Cizí lidé jsou synonymem nejistoty a potenciálního násilí. Příbuzenství naproti tomu znamená zděděnou podobnost a sdílenou hrdost a povinnosti vůči vlastní linii. Mezi příbuznými existuje možnost zabezpečení. Tato bezpečnost však existuje pouze díky síle rodinného otce, jeho domácí autority a jeho ochoty použít násilí proti nepřátelským mimozemšťanům. ... Pro Homera se identita a účel nacházejí v rodokmenu. Člověk jedná pro své předky a své potomky.

Stejně jako řecká společnost byla římská společnost strukturována kolem patrilineárního klanu neboli gens. Příbuzenství bylo také základním organizačním principem mezi Němci a Brity. Celý indoevropský svět byl založen na rozšířených strukturách příbuzenství. Každý člověk si byl samozřejmě vědom své vlastní individuality (teorie o „objevení jednotlivce“ jsou jen přestrojené literární teorie), ale hodnota připisovaná jednotlivci byla podřízena hodnotě komunity (opak toho, co nyní definuje modernost). Manželství bylo přirozeně základním kamenem společenské stavby. Nikdy nešlo o to, aby se dva lidé vzali, ale o to, že dvě rodové linie uzavřely pokrevní spojenectví tím, že si vzaly své děti – které se na rozhodnutí mohly nebo nemusely příliš podílet.

V předkřesťanské Evropě byly sňatky uvnitř klanu běžné, jako způsob, jak zachovat firemní majetek klanové země, kde byli pohřbeni klanové předkové. Sňatky tchánů po smrti manžela byly také běžné, dokonce očekávané.

Ačkoli v římských i germánských společnostech byla pravidlem monogamie, neexistoval žádný zákaz rozvodu nebo druhého manžela, zejména v případě neplodnosti nebo za účelem získání mužského dědice.

Alternativní dědickou strategií byla adopce, obecně v rámci klanu. To bylo usnadněno rozšířenou praxí pěstounské péče, to znamená posílání dětí, aby se o ně starali strýci z matčiny strany nebo z otcovy strany, dokud nedosáhli dospělosti (obzvláště běžné v britských a irských společnostech).

Toto složité propojení živých bylo organizováno kolem vertikální osy uctívání mrtvých, které nábožensky spojovalo komunity od rodinné úrovně přes klanovou až po městskou či národní.[8] Bylo tak zásadní, že klany, které neznaly společného předka, musely vymyslet jeden v druhém, aby uzavřely spojenectví.

Římská kurie tyto praktiky zakázala a zničila tak tradiční klanovou strukturu evropské společnosti. Sociální antropolog Jack Goody zdokumentoval tento systematický útok na příbuzenství v díle The Development of the Family and Marriage in Europe (Cambridge UP, 1983) a nověji v The European Family: historico-antropologické eseji (Blackwell, 2000). Harvardský profesor Joseph Henrich následoval jeho příkladu Nejpodivnější lidé na světě. Protože Henrich není ani historik, ani sociální antropolog, ale profesor lidské evoluční biologie, budu se v další části spoléhat přímo na Goodyho a další zdroje, než se vrátím k originálnějším částem Heinrichovy knihy.

„Jak církev zabránila trhu manželství“

Ve své zásadní knize Rytíř, dáma a kněz: Utváření moderního manželství ve středověké Francii, [9] Francouzský historik Georges Duby zdokumentoval převzetí instituce manželství západní církví, která pracovala od vrcholů společnosti až dolů. Opravdu to začalo v desátém století. „V severní Francii v devátém století bylo manželství stále něčím, do čeho se kněží příliš nezapojovali. V textech není žádná zmínka o svatebních požehnáních, s výjimkou případu královen, kde to byl stále jen jeden prvek v rituálu korunovace. Až na koncilu ve Veroně v roce 1184 se manželství oficiálně stalo svátostí. Církev však již dávno předtím začala vydávat zákony o manželství a rozhodovala o tom, které svazky jsou platné a kteří potomci jsou legitimní. Jak ukazuje Goody: „Tím, že se církev vložila do samotné struktury domácího života, dědictví a manželství, získala velkou kontrolu nad základními kořeny společnosti samotné. Nová pravidla zahrnovala následující:

- Autorita rodičů a blízkých příbuzných nad sňatky mladších osob byla snížena. Církev neschvalovala domluvené sňatky a dovolila manželům uzavřít sňatek bez souhlasu rodičů.
- Rozvod a nový sňatek byly téměř nemožné, takže nezůstalo žádné řešení dědičnosti pro neplodná manželství. Manželství mohlo být uzavřeno pouze vzájemným souhlasem, ale nemohlo být rozbito ani vzájemným souhlasem.
- Byla prosazována přísná monogamie a bylo odsouzeno brát si druhé manželky nebo konkubíny.

- Sňatek s tchánem po smrti manžela/manželky, jak v Evropě, tak na Blízkém východě, byl prohlášen za krvesmilný: podle kanonického práva se bratr vašeho manžela stal vaším skutečným bratrem.
- Také sňatky s duchovními příbuznými (kmotrem či kmotra) byly tabuizovány, ať už to byli pokrevní příbuzní či nikoli.
- Adopce, široce praktikovaná v římském světě jako strategie dědičnosti, se stala silně omezenou. Kanonické právo účinně vázalo všechny formy dědictví přímo na genealogickou linii původu.
- Nejdůležitější bylo, že sňatky s pokrevními příbuznými byly zakázány a prohibice byla postupně rozšířena až na sedmý stupeň. Toto v podstatě tabuizované manželství mezi těmi, kteří sdíleli jednoho nebo více ze svých 128 pra-pra-pra-pra-prarodičů, činí svatbu ve vaší vesnici prakticky nemožným, přinejmenším teoreticky, a v praxi to církvi poskytuje prostředky nátlaku na šlechtické rody.
- K seznamu je třeba přidat odsouzení všech způsobů uctívání předků, nyní asimilovaných s nekromancí a uctíváním d'áblů. Rituální vzpomínky na předky, klíč k duchovní jednotě rodin a klanů, byly pod vlivem Augustina na Západě intenzivněji potlačovány, zatímco ve východním pravoslaví (zejména u srbské Slavy) se mu podařilo do jisté míry přežít. Popsal jsem to v „Vyved' své mrtvé!“

Postupné prosazování těchto zákonů hluboce proměnilo společnost. Vzneseným účelem bylo rozbít klanové, kmenové a národní identity, aby se všichni křesťané sjednotili do jedné velké milující rodiny, přičemž každý člověk byl vytržen z linie prvotního hříchu a křtem naroubován (neboli „znovuzrozen“) do Krista.

Ale byla tu i ekonomická pobídka. Jak říká Jack Goody: „Zakažte blízké manželství, odrazujte od adopce, odsuzujte polygynii, konkubinát, rozvody a nové sňatky a 40 procent rodin nezůstane bez přímých mužských dědiců. “Když se vlastnictví privatizovalo, mohli zůstavitelé svobodně odkázat, cokoli chtěli, duchovním institucím (někdy „svatému“, který je tam pohřben), a zcizení majetku ve prospěch církve bylo značně usnadněno. Strategie byla občas vyjádřena explicitně:

Salvianus, biskup z Marseille z pátého století, vysvětluje, že veškeré pozemské statky člověka k němu přicházejí od Boha a k Bohu by se měly vrátit. I když bylo přípustné udělat výjimku pro vlastní děti, neplatilo to pro žádné kolaterální nebo fiktivní dědice. Ve skutečnosti mluví o adoptovaných dětech jako o „dětích křivé přísahy“, čímž podvádí Boha (nebo jeho církev) o to, co mu právem patřilo. Toto prohlášení zcela jasně ukazuje, proč by tato instituce měla být zakázána v zájmu církve a spirituality. Konfrontace s minulými praktikami je velmi explicitní a měla obrovský vliv na budoucnost; i když později existovalo několik výjimek, zákaz byl v průběhu staletí v celém křesťanstvu z velké části dodržován.

Bohatí lidé přirozeně potřebovali zvláště spasení, protože pro ně je obtížnější jít do nebe než pro velblouda projít uchem jehly. Svůj problém mohli vyřešit tím, že by své bohatství dali církvi. Nechyběly svaté modely k napodobování. Vezměme si případ svatého Paulina z Noly, římského aristokrata, který se v roce 394 rozhodl řídit se Ježíšovou radou a získat pro sebe „poklady v nebi“ tím, že se vzdá veškerého svého rodinného jmění. Jen málo šlechticů následovalo příklad svatého Paulina úplně. Většina preferovala zůstat bohatý celý život a odlehčit svou duši až na prahu smrti, ale ne tak, aby vydědil své děti. Vévoda z Akvitánie ve své zakládací listině opatství Cluny prohlásil, že jednal „pro mou vlastní bezpečnost“ a „pro zisk mé duše,[14]

Obchodním spasením se církev stala největším vlastníkem půdy v Evropě. „Na konci dvanáctého století,“ píše Robert Moore, „kostely držely možná jednu třetinu obdělávané půdy v severní Francii a pravděpodobně asi polovinu v jižní Francii a Itálii.“[15] Na rozdíl od každého jiného majetku byl církevní majetek (v držení jakékoli duchovní instituce, jako jsou biskupství nebo kláštery) nezcizitelný:

na koncilu v Lyonu v roce 1274 zakázal Řehoř IX. darování, prodej, výměnu (permutatio) a trvalý pronájem (emphyteusis) církevního majetku .[16]Nezcizitelnost znamená, že církev je korporací, která nepodléhá smrti – přesně tím, čím se klany snažily být, než křesťanství prohlásilo, že pouze jednotlivci a církve jsou věčné bytosti.

Prosazování celibátu v církvi gregoriánskými reformátory přispělo k tomu, že církevní majetek byl nezcizitelný, jak vysvětlil historik Henry Charles Lea ve svém Historical Sketch of Sacerdotal Celibacy in the Christian Church (1867):

Církev denně dostávala obrovské přírůstky majetku díky zbožné horlivosti svých bohatých členů, pokání na smrtelné posteli zoufalých hříšníků a velkorysosti císařů a prefektů, zatímco snahy dosáhnout nezcizitelnosti jejího majetku pocházejí z raného období. Jeho akvizice, ať už skutečné nebo osobní, byly samozřejmě vystaveny mnohem většímu riziku zchátralosti, když duchovní, kteří měli na starosti jeho široce rozptýlené bohatství, měli rodiny, o jejichž obstarání se dalo očekávat, že přirozená rodičovská starost převáží nad smyslem pro povinnost při plnění důvěry se jim svěřila. Nejjednodušším způsobem odvrácení nebezpečí by se tedy mohlo zdát zbavení církevníka případů otcovství a přerušením všech rodinných a příbuzenských vazeb, zavázat je úplně a navždy k církvi a k ní samotné. Tento motiv... byl v pozdějších dobách otevřeně uznán a nepochybně sloužil jako závažný argument v myslích těch, kteří naléhali a zajistili přijetí kánonu.

Po pravdě řečeno, nejhorlivější papežové a kardinálové nebyli těmi nejpříkladnějšími. Daleko od toho, aby byli odtrženi od rodinných vazeb, nahradili občasnou simonii institucionálním nepotismem. Pro drtivou většinu římských baronských rodin, píše Sandro Carocci a Marco Vendittelli, „hybnou sílu, určující faktor velikosti rodiny je třeba... právem hledat v nepotismu příbuzného zvoleného do Sacred College nebo do papežské důstojnosti.“ Inocent III. (1198-1216) vybudoval jmění rodu Conti a právě „brutálnímu nepotismu Bonifáce VIII. (1294-1303)“ vděčí rodina Caetani za svůj raketový vzestup. "V lukrativním umění hromadění beneficií přirozeně vynikali příbuzní papežů a kardinálů."

DIVNÝ mozek

Nyní se vracím k oceňované knize Josepha Henricha Nejpodivnější lidé na světě (Farrar, Strauss a Giroux, 2020) , která, k mému překvapení, shledala mimořádně bohatou, s množstvím studií dokumentujících příčinné souvislosti mezi náboženskou historií, intenzita příbuzenství a psychologie. Jak možná víte, Henrich vymyslel zkratku WEIRD, aby znamenal „bílé, evropští, průmysloví, bohatí a demokratičtí“, a aby zároveň zdůraznil, že navzdory své tendenci považovat se za normu jsou lidé ze Západu výjimka, stojící v průměru na jednom konci škály holismus-individualismus:

Na rozdíl od většiny dnešního světa a většiny lidí, kteří kdy žili, jsme my DIVÍ lidé vysoce individualističtí, posedlí sami sebou, orientovaní na kontrolu, nekonformní a analytici. Zaměřujeme se na sebe – na naše vlastnosti, úspěchy a aspirace – na naše vztahy a sociální role. Naším cílem je být „sami sebou“ napříč kontexty a nekonzistence druhých vnímat spíše jako pokrytectví než flexibilitu. ... Vidíme sami sebe jako jedinečné bytosti, ne jako uzly v sociální síti, která se táhne prostorem a zpět v čase.

Naše jedinečná psychologie je produktem naší jedinečné kulturní historie. A nedávný výzkum ukazuje, že „nemůžete oddělit ‚kulturu‘ od ‚psychologie‘ nebo ‚psychologii‘ od ‚biologie‘, protože kultura fyzicky přepojuje naše mozky, a tím formuje, jak přemýšlíme.“ Nejen to, co si myslíme, ale jak si myslíme a cítíme svět a sebe. Žádný kulturní faktor nemá hlubší a trvalejší vliv na naši kolektivní psychiku než struktura příbuzenských skupin:

Povaha příbuzenských institucí ovlivňuje to, jak přemýšlíme o sobě, o svých vztazích, motivacích a emocích. Zasazením jednotlivců do hustých, vzájemně závislých a zděděných sítí sociálních vazeb regulují intenzivní příbuzenské normy chování lidí jemnými a silnými způsoby. Tyto normy motivují jednotlivce, aby bedlivě sledovali sebe a členy své vlastní skupiny, aby se ujistili, že všichni zůstanou v souladu. Často také poskytují starším značnou autoritu nad mladšími členy. Úspěšná orientace v těchto typech sociálních prostředí podporuje konformitu s vrstevníky, úctu k tradičním autoritám, citlivost vůči studu a orientaci na kolektiv (např. klan) nad sebou samým.

Henrich poskytuje měřitelné důkazy o tom, jak „demontáž intenzivního příbuzenství církve ve středověké Evropě neúmyslně dotlačila Evropany a později populace na jiných kontinentech k podivnější psychologii“.[22] Studie provedené Henrichovým vlastním výzkumným týmem a dalšími ukazují pozoruhodnou vytrvalost v této příčině: „Čím déle byla populace vystavena západní církvi, tím slabší jsou její rodiny a podivnější jsou dnes její psychologické vzorce.“[23] Nejvýznamnějším efektem je posun od „interpersonální“ k „neosobní prosociálnosti“:

neosobní prosociálnost je o principech spravedlnosti, nestrannosti, poctivosti a podmíněné spolupráci v situacích a kontextech, kdy jsou mezilidské vazby a členství ve skupině považovány za zbytečné nebo dokonce irelevantní. Ve světech ovládaných neosobními kontexty jsou lidé závislí na anonymních trzích, pojištění, soudech a dalších neosobních institucích namísto velkých vztahových sítí a osobních vazeb. Neosobní trhy tak mohou mít dvojitý vliv na naši sociální psychologii. Zároveň snižují naši mezilidskou prosociálnost v rámci našich skupin a zvyšují naši neosobní prosociálnost vůči známým a neznámým lidem.

Paradoxně, rozpad katolické hegemonie v moderní době urychlil mentální transformaci Evropy směrem k většímu individualismu, a to zvýšením posvátné hodnoty jednotlivce. Protestantismus se choval jako „podpora mnoha DIVNÝCH psychologických vzorců“, [25] protože zdůrazňoval, že „všichni lidé mají povolání – svobodně zvolené povolání nebo povolání – které jedinečně odpovídá jejich zvláštním vlastnostem a nadání“.[26] Studie potvrzují, že „protestanti se více než katolíci zaměřují na vnitřní stavy, přesvědčení, pocity a sklony lidí“.[27]

Mezi faktory, které přispěly k rozpadu intenzivního příbuzenství, Heinrich trvá na tom, že církev prosazuje extrémní normy exogamie:

vezměte v úvahu, že někdo, kdo by v 11. století hledal manžela/manželku, by musel teoreticky vyloučit v průměru 2 730 bratranců a sestřenic a potenciálně 10 000 celkem příbuzných jako kandidáty, včetně dětí, rodičů a pozůstalých manželů všech těchto sestřenic. V moderním světě s rušnými milionovými městy bychom takové zákazy snadno zvládli. Ale ve středověkém světě roztroušených farem, intimních vesnic a malých měst by tyto zákazy donutily lidi oslovit široko daleko, aby našli křesťanské cizince z jiných komunit, často z různých kmenových nebo etnických skupin. Tyto účinky byly, tuším, nejsilněji pociťovány ve středních ekonomických vrstvách, mezi těmi, které byly dostatečně úspěšné na to, aby si jich Církev všimla, ale nebyly dostatečně silné, aby využívaly úplatkářství nebo jiný vliv k obcházení pravidel. Tak, MFP [Církevní program pro manželství a rodinu] pravděpodobně nejprve rozpustil intenzivní příbuzenství ze středu směrem ven. Evropské elity by byly tou poslední rezervou, protože MFP tiše a systematicky reorganizovala sociální strukturu pod nimi.

Srovnávací studie ukazují, že každé století vystavení západní církve snižuje míru sňatků sestřenic téměř o 60 procent,[29] a podle studie provedené v italských provinciích v roce 1995 „čím nižší je výskyt sňatků sestřenic a sestřenic v provincii, tím vyšší je míra dobrovolného darování krve cizím lidem“ (silný ukazatel neosobní prosociálnosti).[30] "Lidé ze zemí s vyšší mírou sňatků sestřenic a sestřenic odhalují holistický styl myšlení." [31]

Mimochodem, je snadné pochopit, proč jsou islámské komunity na rozdíl od křesťanských více celostní a interpersonální. Jak to shrnuje Thomas Glick v islámském a křesťanském Španělsku v raném středověku : „Islám poskytl rámec, který legitimizoval kmenové hodnoty a dal jim náboženský význam; Křesťanství mělo tendenci pracovat opačným směrem, spíše k rozvoji mezilidských než meziskupinových vazeb. Sňatky mezi bratřenci a sestřenicemi prvního stupně jsou v islámu stále velmi běžné. Každý v Evropě vidí, že arabské a muslimské komunity jsou stále velmi příbuzné a hluboce pohrdají našimi individualistickými hodnotami. A každý cítí rostoucí sebedůvěru, kterou získává díky své pevné soudržnosti, když se na nás dívá jako na ubohé jedince plovoucí v nerozlišené tekutině dekadence.

Joseph Henrich má zásluhu na tom, že zpochybňuje západní etnocentrismus a poukazuje na „podivnost“ našeho hodnotového systému. Ale ačkoli nevyjadřuje žádné sympatie ke katolické církvi, má většinou pozitivní hodnocení druhu individualismu, který vyvolala. Nepozastavuje se nad jeho vysokými náklady, jak pro Západ, tak pro zbytek. Oslabením příbuzenské solidarity podle něj církev vytvořila potřeby a příležitosti pro nové formy solidarity, spolupráce a partnerství: „Samotná myšlenka, že člověk může jednat svobodně, nezávisle na svých klanech, příbuzenstvech nebo liniích, uzavírat sociálně izolované dohody. (smlouvy) předpokládá neobvykle individualistický svět neosobní směny.“[33] „Celkově je spontánní vznik a šíření dobrovolných organizací schopných samosprávy a samoregulace – jak dokládají charterová města, kláštery, cechy a univerzity – jedním z charakteristických znaků evropské populace druhého tisíciletí.[34] Uvolnění rodinné loajality také vedlo k novým koncepcím vlády: „lidé začali uvažovat o pojmech individuálních práv, osobních svobod, právního státu a ochrany soukromého vlastnictví“. To je zapouzdřeno v Americké deklaraci nezávislosti: „Považujeme tyto pravdy za samozřejmé, že všichni lidé jsou stvořeni sobě rovni, že jsou obdařeni svým Stvořitelem jistými nezcizitelnými právy, mezi něž patří život, svoboda a hon za štěstím.“ Zde Henrich komentuje:

z pohledu většiny lidských společenství není samozřejmá představa, že každý člověk má vrozená práva nebo privilegia oddělená od jejich sociálních vztahů nebo dědictví. A z vědeckého hlediska nebyla dosud zjištěna žádná „práva“ skrývající se v naší DNA nebo jinde. Tato myšlenka se prodává, protože apeluje na konkrétní kulturní psychologii.

Abych to řekl otevřeněji, tato abstraktní myšlenka je zcela oddělena od antropologické reality a konkrétní kulturní psychologie, která ji podporuje, je nebezpečně klamná. Nemluvě o do očí bijícím pokrytectví psát takové vyznání víry a přitom zbavovat původní Američany jejich přirozených práv na půdu jejich předků a dovážet africké otroky, aby podpořili honbu bílých mužů za štěstím. Spojené státy byly založeny ve lži, která je znovu pronásleduje.

K čemu bychom přirovnali Divný západ? Na kus země přinášející zázračnou úrodu, která zanechala jeho antropologickou půdu neplodnou a toxickou? Nebo třeba nadopovanému sportovci či umělci, který nyní musí za svůj úspěch zaplatit zdravím. Není pochyb o tom, že téměř nadlidský nárůst energie a kreativity, který Západ získal díky svému křesťansky inspirovanému individualismu, přišel s vysokou cenou. Byli jsme vysoko, ale nyní začínáme pociťovat abstinenční příznaky. A možná i nevratné poškození mozku. Antropologická realita (jinak známá jako lidská přirozenost) dohání. Postavili jsme nový svět, ale nyní zjišťujeme, že nás jako lidské bytosti dekonstruoval.

Je ale skutečně spravedlivé vinit křesťanství z konečného stádia našeho individualismu? Ne. Křesťanství například nikdy nepodporovalo záměnu mužského a ženského pohlaví (ačkoli nikdy nevysvětlovalo rozdíl mezi mužskou a ženskou duší, což mohlo být užitečné). Naše nemoc je způsobena útoky cizí, nekřesťanské elity. Napsal jsem na toto téma více než na kterékoli jiné. Ale proto potřebujeme náš imunitní systém. Přirozeným imunitním systémem zdravé společnosti nikdy nebyla „rasová identita“, ale genealogická identita, která má jak vertikální dimenzi (rodová linie), tak horizontální dimenzi (příbuzenství). A upřímně řečeno, západní křesťanství, přesněji středověké papežství, je vinno za zničení tohoto imunitního systému, jak vertikálně, tak horizontálně, záměrně a systematicky.

Představme si křesťanskou otázku jako odvrácenou stranu židovské otázky, chcete-li: Jak křesťanství oslabilo náš krevní instinkt a nahlodalo naši příbuznou sociální strukturu, a tím nás učinilo naprosto zranitelnými vůči manipulaci a nadvládě těch největších intenzivně příbuzensky založení lidé. Pokud my ze Západu tuto otázku pokorně neuvažujeme, budeme i nadále dláždit cestu do pekla našim dětem ve jménu Ježíše nebo demokracie. Intenzivní příbuzenství, navrhuji, je jediný způsob, jak přežít. Jak? Jsem lepší v teorii než v praxi, takže tuto otázku nechám na jiných. Ale jedna věc je jistá: manželství bylo, je a vždy bude základním kamenem společenské stavby.

Jo, a mimochodem, buď katolík, jak chceš, pokud to pomůže tvé rodině a tvému klanu. Pomohlo to Kennedyovým, nejhrdinštější rodině v americké historii. „Joseph P. Kennedy vytvořil ve svém životě jednu velkou věc, a tou byla jeho rodina,“ napsal Laurence Leamer v Sons of Camelot. „Joe učil, že krev vládne a že si musí navzájem důvěřovat a vydat se do nebezpečného světa plného zrad a nejistoty, vždy se vracet do útočiště rodiny.

Individualism is a lie.

First, individualism has value only among the gifted.

Individualism of mediocrity is nothing.

A great scientist makes a difference as an individual. Most no-talents make no difference, no matter how individualistic they are.

Also, as most people lack a strong sense of independence, their individualism never amounts to autonomy and agency. As weak individualism, they just fall under the sway of bigger forces. Most individuals haven't the spine of the fictional Howard Roark. Not the vision and resolve.

The Sixties revolution supposedly liberated the boomers into individualism, but we've seen just masses of morons swayed this way and that by the controllers of fashion.

How did globo-homo spread? Did all those individuals independently decided to celebrate sodomy as rainbow? No, as weak individuals, they just went along.

Individualism was supposed to liberate the person from the clan or tribe but merely made him into a cog of the machine.

Yes... the Catholic Church, consciously or not, made Whites become the most individualistic people on Earth by banning Cousin Marriage – and, in turn, paved the way to Capitalism (as Capitalism can only exist if you trust non-kin).

I think that's brilliant, really.

Would you rather be from a collectivist race, like the Afghanis and Pakistanis? In fact, like every other race in this World...

I propose to call out any White Nationalist who favours Statism, Fascism or Socialism an “honorary Brown person”.

| Marriages between first-degree cousins are still very common within Islam.

As are fused fingers and extra thumbs. I met a couple of Somalis with these traits. The latter's friends called him "Six", and one informed me that in their culture, such minor deformities were considered a sign of good luck.

The other fused-fingers individual I came across was a young Amish woman waiting in a terminal. She was knitting. This was about 30 years ago, just as this group was starting to take the geneticists' advice to marry farther [sic] afield.

A bit too late for her, but likely the reason she was in the terminal in the first place. I saw another young Amishman, with a group of young adults, negotiate a cab fare between Greyhound and Amtrak in Chicago. (Cabbies hate short fares like this, so they probably promised him a generous tip.) Gotta visit Mom and Dad in Indiana and Oma and Opa in Pennsylvania.

By the way, Jews can marry their nieces in Rhode Island, a colonial-era dispensation that survives to this day. (See the NY supreme court case Matter of May.) Whether they can marry their nephews after 2015 is a question I don't think has been explored.

banning Cousin Marriage...

I think that's brilliant, really.

Some race realist writing in American Renaissance (perhaps it was Richard Lynn) defended polygamy among the Bushmen of Namibia as eugenic. In the very last paper issue of that organ, classicist E Christian Kopff fired off a letter condemning the idea as barbarian, in the literal sense, using the rise of the Romans as a counter-example.

You are acting in Prof Kopff's tradition. Let the wogs keep their incestuous ways.

Banning first-cousin marriage was a good idea from a eugenic standpoint. The practice significantly depresses the IQ of Sunni Arab nations. Beyond that level of consanguinity it doesn't matter all that much. And marrying one's in-laws after the death of the spouse? The Hebrews saw that as a duty, and I don't disagree.

Discouraging (i.e. penalizing) divorce is healthy for families but prohibiting it altogether was one of the stupidest and most inhumane of the basic principles of Christianity, being propounded by Jesus himself. One of the reasons that though I admire this man, I cannot revere him.

If Numa Denis Fustel de Colanges can be believed, he reconstructs vestiges of the ancient Indo-European religion quite nicely in his influential work, The Ancient City. This ancient religion was originally 100% about ancestor and clan worship. Its destruction has been a historical arc that has spanned millennia, and the medieval Church appears as but one player in a very long saga, and neither the first nor last but somewhere from whence it emerges as maybe the earliest player on your fuller historical record.

The death warrant for the family and clan worship was written in pre-history. Such worship was already doomed and on the outs by the time of Augustus, when the Lares and Penates lingered in households more and more a curios. “These were minor pagan gods,” they teach us in schoolrooms. The gods of the cities had already overtaken them, and it was just a matter of time. But in earlier ages only dimly seen, as Fustel de Coulanges explores, the Lares and Penates were not minor, nor were the duties and rites to the dead. They were central to how the hearths of the land functioned and maintained.

M. Terentius Varro: “the Penates are those through whom we breathe in our inner core (penitus), through whom we have a body, through whom we possess a rational mind.” (Doesn’t that sound like a bit of a “individualistic” take, too?)

This article is a fascinating overview of individualism vs collectivism. I've also been thinking about families and their disintegration lately. Many factors seem to play a part: conflict, divorce, ambition. Socialization within a family may be the most important consideration, however; if children aren't instructed to look after their kin, they likely won't place an emphasis on family ties. Since Westerners mostly don't seriously consider their duty to family, it's certainly possible to strengthen kinship bonds just by teaching children that blood relations matter. Beneficial results should follow without the need for dysgenic marriages with close relatives. An analysis of evolutionary biology/anthropology can be instructive, but I don't think it's wise or possible to just revert especially when the more primitive way is now foreign.

There is a lot to unpack here, but the final stage of the disassembly of traditional structures is meritocracy. Meritocracy is one of the those cloying ideas that seems at first to make sense but really doesn't. The great flaw of the meritocratic idea is that it deprives the individual of a birthright. Now, birthright to the modernist mind is one of those terrifying ideas which seems at first to make no possible sense. A person without a birthright, though, is someone who has no protection whatsoever against adversity and misfortune and no right to a place in society. If all were born into a truly level playing field, maybe meritocracy would make some sense. Otherwise, most of the time meritocracy is not much more than crass social Darwinism masquerading as fairness.

How wide can the application of meritocracy be anyway? My thought is, not very. For some great number of jobs and careers, there are no real qualifications needed for the entry level, just some level of aptitude and a desire or a sense of vocation for that kind of work. For others, a high level of natural aptitude is as valuable or more valuable than some specific credential.

The concept of meritocracy might have some application to baseball or the highest and most specialized levels of engineering. Or maybe theoretical physics. What does meritocracy have to do with who can fill some ordinary public job or who is most qualified to teach English at the local community college? Beyond some basic qualifications that many people might have, the answer is, nothing.

But I have digressed. Most of what we call meritocracy is a cover for guild interest. Even when people outside of the social milieu guild members usually come from are admitted, the fact that they are admitted only after jumping over certain hurdles specified as meritocratic still reinforces the guild structure.

Better to have guilds right out in the open, where the rest of us can see them.

Agreed too. But divorce and remarriage are permitted in Orthodoxy, though discouraged.

First of all, Catholicism, like all religions, is primarily concerned with spiritual matters, not with some kind of materialistic mumbo jumbo about “consciousness of racial identity”, something that doesn’t even make much sense, and surely is not enough to base one’s society and morals on.

Materialists, Nietzscheists, psycho-evo and Darwinists cannot understand any of it, because they don’t see anything besides matter. That’s why they use pseudo-scientific analogies such as “Immune-deficiency” and “viruses”, because it’s the only way they can understand anything.

(although it never explained the difference between a male soul and a female soul, which might have been helpful)

I’m not so well read in such matters, but I think there’s a lot of discussion at least from Aquinas onwards about it. From what I understand, there is no difference between a “male and a female soul”, but since the soul is indissoluble from the body (the soul is the form and the body is the matter, or the human body is the actualization of the soul), there is an obvious difference between males and females that is more than just merely biological. Again, not that I’m well read in such matters, but Guyenot’s mocking tone is stupid and unmerited, because it actually is something that the Church doctors thought deeply about.

Oh, and by the way, be as Catholic as you want, if it helps your family and your clan.

Again, this is not the main reason one becomes (or belongs) to any religion, although it is part of it. (Well, perhaps it is like this for Jews, whose religion appears to be just about belonging to an exclusive race/clan. Perhaps “white nationalists” should convert to Judaism?)

First, individualism has value only among the gifted. Individualism of mediocrity is nothing.

Pertinent, and in support of the article?!

Intensive kinship, I suggest, is the only way to survival.

...accordingly, not for the gifted, sorting outliers into “artificial kinship” is [should lead to quality requirements for our elites, and larger society].

The natural immune system of a healthy society has never been “racial identity,” but genealogical identity, which has both a vertical dimension (lineage) and a horizontal dimension (kinship).

Racial identity is the extension of genealogical identity, vertical and horizontal dimensions included?!

Our times require procedures of sorting that include the facet of Christianity [i am not at all in favor of religious existing models, including consumerism, identity politics], a “clergy” that disconnects from kinship on universal values, “Noblesse oblige” [meritocracy, not structured Vatican nothing-ness].

Our elites, are sorted on the principle of obedience to, and dependency of the Jewish elites. Easily manipulated [whores as Scholtz, Sunak, Stoltenberger, Michel Francois, van der Leyen]. So indeed Christianity over ten centuries could be the root cause.

Royal families marrying into one another on the principle of mere opportunism, as clans in pre-Christian Europe did, and do, does not select for individual qualities [Prince Harry as an expression of dull], and weakened the elites into what they are today, a towel wrapped around the feet of elite Jewry. Well deserved, innocent and ignorant, but originating the social problems at hand today.

The criteria of kinship are as important, or more than kinship in itself. Nature provides less of selection criteria [mortality, birth], so the responsible individual and structured aligned groups should step in and fill the void. "Antropocene" is not yet fully understood.

Thanks for the above average piece, a relief in the line-up of drab.

In America individualism was sold to convince people to leave their families and bolt towards what has become Californica. A place where everybody smiles but no one can keep a family or marriage together. All that is needed is a working stiff, a gay man, a lesbian anyone without a family. Families cost businesses money, and men with families require raises as offspring require more expenses.

In the early seventies, worker salaries and benefits froze and instead the working class was given the faggy disco with the tight Jordash jeans with the embroidered back pockets. Added to that, the open shirt with the gold chain and the Supercuts replaced the barber.

Workers worked all week, went to the disco on Saturday night and couldn't wake up in time for Sunday mass. Then liquor sales where allowed on Sunday to make sure one never went to church on Sunday.

Where does family, Mom and Dad and calling siblings in different states fit in this busy schedule of work hard, play hard? Alone, One thought of no one else until One need help and found out no connections or alliances.

We are all guilty to a degree to be stupid enough to forget the value of debt free land and family in a storm. Soon we might be forced to learn this lesson.

In the valleys of the Alps the locals lived in isolation from many trends that proliferated in the lowlands.

It is quite common in these valleys for a handful of family names to predominate, like a medieval clans. Fortunately for the people in these remote valleys, they never learned English and therefore were immune from much of the Judeo-Saxon Talmudic mind control grid.

Up until the proliferation of high speed internet these valleys had, and to a certain degree still have, numerous clubs where families have been socially active for generations. Many of the restaurants in these villages have a so called “Stammtisch” where not only do respected locals congregate, but on the walls will be photographs and awards from past generations for things like climbing, shooting or other sports. This doesn’t rise to the level of Roman ancestor veneration, but it does foster a certain respect for heritage.

It goes without saying that the inhabitants of these towns and villages exhibit a certain degree of standoffishness to strangers and “lowlanders”.

Both of my wife’s parents arrived in California as immigrants and were naturalized. Her father was a “lowlander”, and her mother was from a small town in the alps. Her father would always call her mother a “hillbilly” and make snide remarks about the inbreeding that went on back at the beginning of the last century.

Just watched a lecture by a Jew “anarchist”, who was “a brilliant humanist”. I can’t make much sense of his “ideas”; they lack any coherence. Apart from his now and then weird laughter. On the other hand, one has to give him credit for a certain detail:

Graeber, who was Jewish, also defended Corbyn from accusations of antisemitism, saying that “What actually threatens Jews, the people who actually want to kill us, are Nazis [sic!]”, and that the allegations represented a “weaponization” of antisemitism for political purposes.

Very confusing his wife’s explanation of his death. She actually believes in a “connection with Covid”. I would be more interested to know if it was not rather the “vaccination”, or was this not yet on the market at that time? <https://www.patreon.com/posts/my-opinion-on-of-42824424>

I sympathize with your reaction in defense of Catholicism. I am only here dealing with the papacy's social engineering. There are many other aspects to Catholicism, and, as you surely must agree, popes are sometimes a problem.

Regarding the question of male vs female soul, I don't think saint Thomas or any other said much about it : the implicate, and perhaps explicite principle is that souls are genderless. Thomism is only very superficially Aristotelian, since anyway Aristotle's souls are not immortal, being only the "form" (morphic field) of the body. I'll have to study in detail that point.

But I think the more general problem is that Christianity never developed any psychological theory (a theory of the psyche) or any worth. Depth-psychology should have logically come from Christian thinkers. It didn't. Which is why it came from Freud, alas (Oedipus complex, penis-envy, and such garbage). This is one more big failure of Christianity, to which perhaps I should devote a whole article.

What is the historical reality?

Racism is just an instrument of greed. Whites cannot blame others for the world's ills when they are guilty of the greatest crimes in the history of mankind.

The whites were the ones who went out into the world to kill indigenous people and blacks to steal their land and wealth, and that is a well-known historical fact with its hundreds of millions of human beings killed to rob them.

And the alleged divine right to kill is not valid. And if we analyze it carefully, those indigenous people and blacks have the same right that the West grants the Jews to recover their lands and wealth.

Even we all know that Roman Christianity is stained with the blood of those crimes.

A truly fascinating article! If one spends a significant time truly away from their tribe they begin to feel the importance of their clan even if only subconsciously. Moreover, extreme difficulties tend to circle the wagons. Being away from America and living amongst the Slavs for so long (8+ years) has made me see the differences in mentality, which are quite significant, but complementary nonetheless. The only solution to this wokeness is a return to culture, family and tradition. I honestly felt like a ship without an anchor until I delved into all things Scandinavian; ultimately learning the Norwegian language. America is a rootless society run by Jews. I honestly have grown to despise it and see it beyond saving. Europe is also failing but it has its ancestral roots to revive it. I see no such thing in America. Only few very ideological people see themselves as a part of a large and encompassing white race.

Also, as most people lack a strong sense of independence, their individualism never amounts to autonomy and agency. As weak individualism, they just fall under the sway of bigger forces.

The Sixties revolution supposedly liberated the boomers into individualism, but we've seen just masses of morons swayed this way and that by the controllers of fashion.

How did globo-homo spread? Did all those individuals independently decided to celebrate sodomy as rainbow? No, as weak individuals, they just went along.

Individualism was supposed to liberate the person from the clan or tribe but merely made him into a cog of the machine.

The USA enshrined “individualism” as well as “democracy” because they are intimately related.

As with individualism, so with “democracy.” Democracy is fine for a group of superior sorts — electing a “first among equals” as it were — such as Athens or the Roman republic or the Hanseatic states. They would have though the idea of letting the poor, uneducated, women, ex-slaves, convicts, and anyone who happens to be born within US borders (the only time borders matter to the Left) as insane.

Once the “individual” is stripped of family, clan, guild, etc. and stands naked before the world, he's supposed to “pursue happiness” by his “freely made choices”, either at the ballot box or the grocery store. Indeed, politics has been reduced to a branch of consumerism.

What actually happens, what the non-aristo elite intended to happen when they propagandized “democracy” or “individualism” in order to displace the true aristos, was the masses are controlled by advertising.

William Roper: “Yes, I’d cut down every law in England to do that!”

This country is planted thick with laws, from coast to coast, Man’s laws, not God’s! And if you cut them down, and you’re just the man to do it, do you really think you could stand upright in the winds that would blow then? Yes, I’d give the Devil benefit of law, for my own safety’s sake!”

But I think the more general problem is that Christianity never developed any psychological theory (a theory of the psyche) or any worth.

Arguably Christianity misinterpreted or sabotaged the existing tripartite body/spirit/soul doctrines and replaced them with a body/soul (actually spirit, misnamed) duality, which Descartes (Jesuit) recapitulated as “philosophy.” See James Hillman or Henri Corbin. Some Orthodox Christians maintain that this did not happen in the East, where the true Greek/Platonic doctrine was mostly carried on.

Depth-psychology should have logically come from Christian thinkers. It didn't. Which is why it came from Freud, alas (Oedipus complex, penis-envy, and such garbage).

Arguably Jung was attempting to retrofit “psychoanalysis” into a “less Jewish” science, for which the New York Times has never forgiven him.

This is one more big failure of Christianity, to which perhaps I should devote a whole article.

Yes, and yes.

It was not until the Council of Verona in 1184 that marriage was officially made a sacrament.

Hahahaha This writer is a silly person.

Marriage is a Divine Institution (it is in all of the better Bibles) and Pope Saint Siricius, A.D. 385 in “Direct as decessores” to Himerius:

But you have inquired concerning the marriage veil, whether one can receive in matroimony a girl bethfroed to another. Let this not be done. We prohibit it in every way, because, if that blessing which the priest gives to the bride is violated by any transgression, it is like a kind of sacrilege among the faithful.

I have no idea why it is thought this man has anything ever useful to write about the Catholic Church.

Owing to his hatred of it, his claims about is are as wrong as they are silly .

This article's thesis is altogether wrong in blaming Christianity for the ills of the modern West. The intrinsic evil of contraception, which is contrary to the aims and purpose of both marriage and the marital act, that fosters feminism among women and licentiousness among men, is the primary reason for low birth rates, social atomism, and the false idol of individualism.

Might we call that the Hunter Biden Syndrome? (even though a marriage ceremony never was performed prior to consummation)

“An alternative heirship strategy was adoption, generally within the clan. This was facilitated by the widespread practice of fosterage, that is, the sending of children to be cared for by maternal or paternal uncles until they reached adulthood (it was especially common in Briton and Irish societies).”

I don’t know about Iberia, but this is still a somewhat widespread practice in Latin America that seems to cross many socio-economic strata. I’ve witnessed it first-hand. Ditto for a mistress in the weekend mountain chateau, with a wink and a nod among all family members concerned.

First of all, Catholicism, like all religions, is primarily concerned with spiritual matters...

This is definitely not the case. However it is often the usual explanation, given by those not looking deeper into the matter.

In the Catholic West, it was always about which 'caste' would hold temporal power—the church or the aristocracy. One can point to the Guelph / Ghibelline conflict. Both Guenon and Evola spent considerable ink explaining the matter.

For a more artistic (and humorous/ironic) presentation, one may consider Henry V, Act 1, where the Archbishop of Canterbury and Bishop of Ely take great pains with political intrigue, in order to secure their ill-gotten, but now threatened, earthly gains, and in order to maintain political influence.

From today's perspective, one would have to be totally immune to reality not to understand how both Catholic and the large Protestant groups (consider the 'megachurch' money-making phenomenon)—to include weird outliers such as the Mormons, operate. Although within this article's context, Mormons certainly hold kinship/clan dearly, for the most part.

Really interesting material on Roman Catholicism as a fertility cult. I would disagree, however, that the church prevented European unity – on the contrary, it gave a spiritual unity that Europe’s geography made extremely difficult to unify. Indeed, it was only the application of extra-European military power that made the EU possible, and it still has not unified all of Europe, and looks likely to fall apart. So it seems to me the peculiar traits of Catholicism allowed more unity than would otherwise have been possible with, say, paganism.

The United States is in a very different geography and Mormonism seeks to change some of those features of Catholicism, for example it’s emphasis on genealogy and its anti-black messages reinforce family ties, and it’s polygamy is also a similar departure (although this is no longer officially practiced).

All that being said, Mormonism in its current state is very watered down and I myself decided against joining the religion.

The claim of white people's individualism, and particularly white people's individualism as their special weakness, are put to lie by the entire history of colonialism. To put a very long story short, one of the main reasons why it succeeded was invading Europeans almost always being able to rely on and exploit treachery and division among the locals in almost every place where they've encountered developed civilizations (only Japan and, to a much lesser extent, China and other old East Asian countries, reacted to their encroachments as nations, and even they were plagued by civil wars on the background of alien invasion). Meanwhile, the locals only very rarely were able to recruit any European to their cause, even in time periods where European power in their lands was still slight, such as in India during Mughals' heyday. Any hired European specialists were found to be utterly unreliable in any conflict against Europeans or their puppets, sometimes even when you lucked out to hire advisors from a nation hostile to the one attacking you.

The story of al-Andalus' decline and fall is another instructive example. Christians ultimately prevailed despite starting their Reconquista from a shitty position because of greater societal cohesion. According to Christian law, you had three estates with relatively uniform rights, obligations and social standing, but according to Muslim law the society was split into literally dozens of distinct groups, based ultimately on tribal affiliation, with an elaborate pecking order and fierce enmities. So, the Christian side could weather bad outcomes in the ruler lottery, but their opponents were prone to massive social upheavals and disintegration whenever a monarch proved himself weak.

So there are massive mountains of historical evidence of Christian Europeans having greater ties of loyalty to the society as a whole, compared to tribe- and clan-based societies. As to why the situation became inverted starting from second half of XIX century, well, it is a question that must be answered, but to answer it you first have to acknowledge when the rot actually started to creep in.

The question is the notion of 'soul', and identifying it within the hylomorphic composition. To argue that women do not have a soul (or psyche, in the sense of De Anima), at least in Aristotle's view (and as I understand him), cannot be sensibly maintained, inasmuch as prime matter must be 'infused' with form, in order to achieve material differentiation. And, all living things must have soul.

One is justified in conceiving the so-call 'prime matter' as 'nothingness', but this does not explain the formal differences between men and women's nature.

Some argue that matter in general is 'feminine', and the 'active' or formal principle is masculine. But, again, without further consideration, this does not really account for the different natures between men and women. Especially in today's West, where men have become quite feminized in both thinking and behavior.

However it is, the elevation of women as autonomous actors has completely destabilized any traditional element of order in society, and is certainly a large element contributing to modern social degeneration.

A very serious deficiency of Christianity is the way it blathers on and on and on about sin, but fails to help people deal with negative emotions, which are a major source of distress in our lives. Believing that we're "saved" is uplifting, so even if our lives suck, it can be comforting to know that there's still something to look forward to, but very few people are content with that alone. We want solutions to our emotional/psychological problems, and Christianity's only answer is to pray, which many (most?) people experience as useless.

— from which, you seem to suggest, Scandinavians ... Norwegians” are a different mentality.”

Trying to make “Whites” one unity is as inapt as advocating the unity of Roman Catholicism/all Christians.

The blood family is the primary unity. Families united for their perpetuation, prosperity & protection are a nation with natality — birth in the blood — in common. As the Austrian perceived.

(But Mussolini did not: faced with a land and peoples of multiple languages & customs, in spite of efforts to unite Italy, Italian leaders encouraged, even facilitated the emigration of their own people.)

I largely agree with Laurent, with one caveat.

Before Western Christianity, there was already a tendency in northwest Europeans toward individualism, delayed marriage, and relatively weak kinship ties.

According to Schulz et al. (2019), the above mental and behavioral pattern was created by the Western branch of Christianity, particularly through its decision in the ninth century to broaden the ban on cousin marriages to any couple who shared a common ancestor seven generations previously. That ban, they argued, had the effect of creating the Western European pattern of late marriage, frequent celibacy, and nuclear households. That pattern, in turn, encouraged individualism and impersonal sociality.

Schulz, however, ignores two points. First, the broadening of the cousin marriage ban resulted from a decision to abandon the Roman method of calculating degrees of kinship, whereby first cousins were considered to be fourth degree. The new method, of Germanic origin, made them second degree, thereby doubling the number of forbidden marriage partners (McCann, 2010, pp. 57-58). In sum, the ban was Church-enforced but of pagan origin.

Second, when the cousin marriage ban was broadened in the ninth century, Western Europe already had high rates of late marriage, celibacy, and nuclear households. This has been shown at two locations in ninth-century France: the estates of the Abbey of St Germain-des-Prés near Paris, where about 16.3% of all adults were unmarried, and Villeneuve-Saint-Georges, where the figure was 11.5%. At both locations, households were small and nuclear (Hallam 1985, p. 56). A ninth-century survey of the Church of St Victor of Marseille shows both men and women marrying in their mid to late twenties (Seccombe 1992, p. 94). Further back, in the first century, the Roman historian Tacitus wrote about the Germanic tribes, “Late comes love to the young men, and their first manhood is not enfeebled; nor for the girls is there any hot-house forcing; they pass their youth in the same way as the boys” (Tacitus, Germania 20, 1970).

In short, Western Christianity promoted individualism and impersonal sociality because it had assimilated a pre-existing pattern of weak kinship, late marriage, and openness to non-kin. Even if Christianity had never existed, another ideology would have exploited the possibilities of that mental and behavioral pattern.

Finally, Western Christianity “delivered the goods.” It reversed the demographic and cognitive decline of the late Roman period and set Western Europe on a course that would lead it to sustained economic and geopolitical growth.

Henrich made up the acronym WEIRD to stand for “White, European, Industrialized, Rich, and Democratic”

It actually stands for “Western, Educated, Industrialized, Rich, and Democratic”. He notes that most studies on what is “normal” are done in Western universities using mostly students who are not representative at all even of their own ethnicity.

Class still matters are the working classes are much more ethnocentric than the upper middle class “anywheres” as conceptualised by English old school left-winger David Goodhart who realised this conflict and the rise of “anywheres” anti-nationalism was a threat to real social solidarity when a right winger explained to him how mass migration will destroy the welfare state. The “anywheres” don’t seem to care about class politics or industrial policy just abstract social issues and jockeying for status. Which wouldn’t be a problem except they squat on the political space of the real left and prevent it from functioning.

Here in Arizona I see lots of uniquely tight extended families ... as an multifamily investor i guess i meet all kinds of groups.

At first i thought the reason was “they are close white Mormon families”, then it was “they are close Mexican Catholic families”, they are close Indian Hindu families” and so on all the way to “they are close Lefty artsy eclectic types”.....

They common denomination was that for one reason or another they all were inside the same economic trade. And the story was the same uncle ___ made a killing doing this long ago, “had” to pull his wife into it and she pulled her sister or brother and then their kids (cheap labor) and it grew onto a network of extended families all doing some aspect of that industry. It could be custom homebuilding Mormons, it could be residential and commercial plumbing Catholics, it could be C-level hotel owning Indian families, and it could be lefty white odd families all into advertising media of all kinds.

The key component to it all was the founder able to get essentially free labor from the women and children through the hard times. It was always “their name and reputation” that was at stake and the openly stated reason for the sacrifice.

For all extended family groups the years 2007-2014 proved especially tough. The “family IOUs” started being paid back from 2016-2023. The 2020 lock down just brought most closer together, but some, like my own extended real estate family was poisonous divorced by Trump Derangement Syndrome, TDS.

The old man was right, “No God, No politics! Just family money talk!”. But he had past in 2014 and 2016 did what 2008 could not do, TDS tore us up. But in our extended family of real estate we could not avoid the TDS curse by even not talking — just knowing who leaned for or against Trump was enough to break us apart.

And so we have two extended family groups, hopelessly divided even between husband's and wives and children. It's a four legged animal walking with just two legs, and so we are not expanding and just doing "ok", ie not prospering by leaps and bounds- much like our entire country- just doing "ok".

Perhaps things just like this TDS phenomenon, broke up extended families in the past. Now that would be an interesting social study for sure.

The other surviving extended families are doing great, having done so by being either super apolitical or already fully for one camp or for the other camp on the Great TDS divide.

Christianity brought a very man centric (other parts of the world) view to Europa oh I mean Europe. Christianity created the witches and heretics to be burned and tortured .It took from women their status in society and brought them down below the cattle, nothing as if our whole purpose of existence had been nothing and all we are today are Karens. Somehow I think it created a bit of animosity between men and women. I always point out dancing as it is easiest to see a social structure that is unique in the world. But looking toward Russia you can see Asian influences in the male dancing where they dance alone, this is not just Asian but Caucasian. It's like circumcision is not a European practice either but it's not appropriate to show it and most get upset when you even mention it. That's my opinion and I'm sticking to it.

At the time of the Cluniacs' peak (about 1000 AD) monks were the most innovative and productive members of Western society. The Cistercians followed and became even more productive, their advances not replaced until the Industrial Revolution (particularly in beer brewing!) The problem in Catholic Europe in medieval times was a push pull between spirituality and greedy money making. Monks and priests were distinguished in society, better educated and usually more productive; while first born sons inherited the family property (Primogeniture), wealthy families often pushed the second born towards the priesthood or to monasteries; a much better life in medieval times than farming. Most Europeans did not leave the place of their birth. Inbreeding was obvious. This gave Europe a monarchy of idiots and hemophiliacs, and the Ashkenazi Jews (wikipedia lists 21 more common genetic diseases in this population). Village idiots were common, and although suspicious of outsiders, "new blood" and hybrid vitality, though formally attributed to Charles Darwin, was practiced routinely in agriculture (the ancient Egyptians had mules).

There were two major effects of Martin Luther's Protestants (and John Calvin and others). The first was the exposure of the Corrupt Church and re-creation of Christianity in a small number of areas. Religion was a battlefield in ideas, and because of Papal control and $$$$, often a literal battlefield.

Dissenting sects were horrifically persecuted (much like the unvaccinated during the Covid pandemic) along with Jews caught up in rigid Catholicism, often leading to important migrations, occasionally with important skills welcomed by more tolerant Dutch and Germans. The over-reaction— forced religious conversions and deaths of heretics— while enjoyed by the common people (if the heretics were not their relatives) were abhorred by the more educated (whose faith was never strong).

Even in America, about a quarter of the population was farmers up until WW2. Clannish with big families (cheap, exploitable labor), they trusted their family first, close neighbors, other farmers but not much else (and with good reason, as farm history showed). Individualism greatly increased with the >60% of Americans drafted into WW2, and returning from a new world, they left the family farms. By 1960, <9% of Americans lived on farms. The Great Migration to the better paying jobs in manufacturing areas and the expansion of cities and suburbs had occurred. Family ties were mostly limited to holidays and family reunions. As long as individuals could receive by hard work, extended families faded in importance.

Now with the expanded Corruption and upward flow of money to the richest Globalists, one-in-three U.S. adults ages 18 to 34 live in their parents' home. Will this result in extended, more clannish families? Or just less marriages, less children, less individualism?

Firstly, it is very difficult to have racial and cultural cohesion when we have populations that can move about so easily.

Secondly, it is the Church teaching that harmony in community and marriage comes from marrying people from the same culture to promote harmony in marriage. Because the Spanish went to South and Central America, the Church had to respond and said that if, because of those circumstances, you are compelled to marry outside your culture and race, that the people have to be at least Christianized before marrying them.

That is the true Church teaching.

One of the several core reasons and forces the America will dissolve, become collapsed, and break apart: lack of competence; in fact, declining competence.

<https://www.zerohedge.com/personal-finance/what-happens-when-competent-opt-out>

1. The steady increase in workloads, paperwork, compliance and make-work (i.e. work that has nothing to do with the institution's actual purpose and mission) that lead to burnout.

2. Loss of autonomy, control, belonging, rewards, accomplishment and fairness. Professor Christina Malasch pioneered research on the causes of burnout, which can be summarized as any work environment that reduces autonomy, control, belonging, rewards, accomplishment and fairness.

3. The politicization of the work environment. Let's begin by distinguishing between policies enforcing equal opportunity, pay, standards and accountability, policies required to fulfill the legal promises embedded in the nation's social contract, and politicization, which demands allegiance and declarations of loyalty to political ideologies that have nothing to do with the work being done or the standards of accountability necessary to the operation of the complex institution or enterprise. The problem with politicization is that it is 1) intrinsically inauthentic and 2) it substitutes the ideologically pure for the competent

4. The competent must cover for the incompetent. As the competent tire of the artifice and make-work and quit, the remaining competent must work harder to keep everything glued together. Their commitment to high standards and accountability are their undoing, as the slack-masters and incompetent either don't care ("I'm just here to qualify for my pension") or they've mastered the processes of masking their incompetence, often by blaming the competent or the innocent for their own failings.

5. As the competent leadership leaves, the incompetent takes the reins, blind to their own incompetence. It all looked so easy when the competent were at the helm, but reality is a cruel taskmaster, and all the excuses that worked as an underling wear thin once the incompetent are in leadership roles.

I consider Amurka an already failed state with collapse and dismemberment unavoidable. Partition will occur. If Whites are sufficiently organized and de-programmed they will be able to found a separate republic, as will Browns (indigenous Hispanics) as well as Blacks.

THINK: Czech/Slovakia. Yugoslavia> different republics,. Finland independence from Sweden; Algeria independent from France; Kalinograd transferred to Russia from Germany; Alaska transferred from Amurka to Russia. New Indo-European Republic of North America, independent republic part of Russia with full autonomy-just as the other republics and territories of the Russian Federation.

Like rebuilding a house that burned to the ground.

Sparta didn't destroy Athens. It was a long grueling war, eventually a pyrrhic victory for Sparta that was soon to fall as well.

The Peloponnesian War was maybe the greatest calamity for the West. It prevented the way by which Greeks could pull their various strengths into a greater unity. It weakened the two great powers, Athens and Sparta, neither of which recovered, and then came the calamity of Macedonian rule that effectively vulgarized and bastardized Greek civilization that then fell to the worse Romans, who gave civilization a bad name, but then the seeds of decadence were there with the Greeks.

Europe was finally saved by the Germanic barbarians who smashed the Romans to smithereens.

Today, we need a revival of barbarian spirit to the smash the new rome of globo-homo garbage.

If Russia falls, it will be all she wrote /

whereas if Russia prevails, Moscow will become the New Rome, and hub of Western civilization and Christendom, like a modern day Constantinople.

As the West rots, (perhaps not unironically, most notably at its most Western outpost, the coast of California), the center of Western civ will gravitate east, towards Moscow. As Hungary is now doing.

Russia is the last bastion of Western Civilization, who strongly repudiates wokeness and trans children and rancid, anti-white identity politics. This is why they're so committed to crushing Russia and ripping it apart like the scavenging hyenas that they are.

With them, it must be all or none. Having Russia as a hamlet of traditional culture and sane policy, will undermine their imperative to destroy every last scintilla of the West, including most of all, its (white) people; Amalek.

If you pray a lot negative emotions seem to lessen; structured collective prayer is better.

“Structured” how? Do you mean by “official” prayers for various topics, or are you talking about something else entirely?

Some of the most popular Christian approaches package standard self-help advice with a biblical veneer. Eg Joel Osteen or, from an earlier time, Norman Vincent Peale. Their advice often relies on belief in a ‘higher power’, but there is very little essentially Christian about it, and if you left out the Christian parts, it wouldn’t change the message much.

the first thing on any GOP presidential platform should be to pardon Assange and Snowden and all of those political prisoners who're languishing in DC dungeons for the crime of being un-apologetically white. This is an inaccurate statement. Russia is strongly anti colonial and anti white right now. Read some of Putin’s speeches as well as Dugin’s. Ex? CIA Ray McGovern promotes this narrative as well: embrace all things Eastern and Muslim, eschew all things Anglo Saxon and Jewish. Though the Russian Federation isn’t communist, the universalism of communism still underlies their outreach to their Muslim brothers. Whether Christian, communist or globohomo, the uniting of people across ethnic, racial, religious and national boundaries to consolidate power continues. Putin and Orban probably did share similar views on strengthening ethnic and national ties but Putin and the Russians may have moved from that position permanently.

Here is a podcast by Andrew Carrington Hitchcock and Blackbird9 about Laurel Canyon. It is somewhat related to this thread.

ACH \(2160\) Blackbird9 – An Introduction To Laurel Canyon

At 8min Blackbird9 starts explaining how the Sabbatean Jews moved to Hollywood shortly after Edison had invented the technology for motion pictures. B9 explains how these talmudic Jews went to Hollywood with Edison's new technology and set up an artificial reality which they controlled from the shadows. The creation of artificial celebrities that they molded into characters on their stages. Whenever the Feds came to prosecute them for their theft of Edison's gear, they would get fore warning and would flee down to Mexico where they would hang out with Talmudic communists, or later to Laurel Canyon. These people were messianic (Tikkun Olam) and were followers of Sabbatei Levy.

B9 the goes on to 1966 when John Lennon explains that "show business is an extension of the Jewish Religion" and later that the Beatles were bigger than Jesus.

So if we can accept that since the 1900's Talmudic Jews seeking vengeance against goyim infiltrated Hollywood and the film industry, and if we can accept that the reason that the NSDAP initiated book burnings against Jewish obscenities in print when the came to power in 1933, we can start to pick up a trail going back into history of malignant Sabbatean Jews executing Talmudic/Kabbalistic/Sabbatean/Babylonian mind control over their goy victims (whose children they ritually murdered and extracted blood from).

Michael Hoffman in this interview explains how the Papacy descended into the occult and Kabballism in the “middle ages”. This happens to coincide with the time period that Mr. Guyenot describes the “watering down” of European ethnic communities and the Judeaification of Europe.

The Alchemical Processing of Humanity Through Public Psychodrama

Mr. Guyenot seems to assert that the great flowering of European civilization was a result of malign Jewish influence. I would contend that all we have to do is look at the garbage created by Hollywood and the Jewish “entertainment industry” today and compare it to when Jews did not yet have power and still had to allow European genius and creativity an outlet and it becomes clear that absolutely nothing good can be attributed to Tikkun Olam and Jewish obsession with vengeance and domination.

How much sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have ungrateful and thankless Jews?

JEWS ORGANIZED GLOBALLY(JOG) Are Ungrateful Creatures.

JOG Has Declared War On European Christendom and the European Christian people wherever they are on the globe.

I Say The JEW/WASP Ruling Class Of The American Empire Must Be Politically Decapitated

There is no doubt that JEWS ORGANIZED GLOBALLY(JOG) plotted to racially transform the United States — and many other European Christian nations — by using mass immigration as a demographic weapon. It is a historical fact that can't be disputed. I must add, however, that the legacy WASP Ruling Class of the American Empire was a willing accomplice to JOG's demographic execution of America.

Treasonous WASP rodents were and are JOG's willing executioners of the Historic American Nation.

Mass legal immigration and mass illegal immigration increases traffic congestion, spreads urban and suburban sprawl, increases housing costs, lowers wages, swamps schools, overwhelms hospitals, harms the environment and destroys cultural cohesion.

The JEW QUESTION explained:

Jews form a nation within a nation everywhere they reside. Can Jews ever be considered to be part of the larger nation in which they reside when they are genetically and culturally predisposed to put the interests of the Jew Nation over and above the interests of the larger nations in which they reside?

Jew billionaire Larry Fink is using his control of the BlackRock Organized Crime Syndicate(BROCS) to steal every damn thing he can get his RAT JEW PAWS on and more. Trump, Biden and all the rest of the bought and paid for politician whores are just puppets for Jew billionaire Larry Fink.

Jew billionaire Larry Fink and the money-grubbing scum at the evil BlackRock Organized Crime Syndicate have completely captured the US federal government and they are using the monetary policy extremism of the privately-controlled Federal Reserve Bank to loot the citizens of the USA.

JEW BILLIONAIRE BLACKROCK CEO LARRY FINK IS THE DEEP STATE OF THE AMERICAN EMPIRE

Larry Fink Must be Financially Liquidated!

If Northern Europeans, Nords, and Germanics were so smart then why haven't they invented, developed or created anything impressive or meaningful up until the 1500's?

The Germanics didn't destroy Rome either proven by multiple reasonings and evidence. Likewise Germanics didn't take to the seas to look for trade opportunities in Asia. Germanics received economic dividends from southerners. Germanics are blessed with luck alone, luck in being furthest away from Asia and Africa compared to other Europeans and thus avoiding any sort of calamity, luck in having North Atlantic trade winds, luck in taking advantage of brief southron decadence.

Now it's time for germanics to suffer the decadence. We're already seeing it and it's looking to be more disastrous than any previous civilization. Out right population replacement with not a single shot fired.

People with a “European Heritage” have to ask themselves if there ever was a time when their peoples were not under the spell of malignant Judaism.

The Jewish director of the CDC, Rochelle Walensky, has been replaced by Mandy Cohen, who is also Jewish. She said, “There’s so much of what I do in the health and human services space that’s so aligned with Jewish values of healing the world.”

<https://religionnews.com/2020/09/17/mandy-cohen-the-chai-charm-that-keeps-this-secretary-of-health-grounded-in-jewish-values/>

So if Jews are 2% of the population, the chance that the Yenta Walensky would be replaced by the Yenta Cohen is:

(50% population female * 2% population jewish)  2 = .01%

The truth about what has been happening to European Civilization is so blatant even NPR addicted NPC’s should be able to see it.

Meanwhile, the Catholic Church has become a laughing stock and the (black) Pope might as well just be a Rabbi. Anyone trying to assert that the problem with European civilization is Christianity is clearly barking up the wrong tree.

@Fidelios Automata

Excuse me. The Old Testament Jewish law actually FORBIDS marriage to a widowed in law.

But Jewish law MANDATES that if the widow is not the mother of a living son, her brother in law gets the privilege of sleeping with her until she gives birth to a son. Neither he nor she gets a choice in the matter.

But marriage is forbidden.

Level of ignorance on this site never ceases to amaze. I thought the wanna be Jew holy roller churches did a better job of teaching the Jewish part of the Bible.

Maybe I shouldn't have posted that latter video, since it probably distracts from my main point, namely that Joe Kennedy insisted that his boys be educated in elite, extremely exclusive Protestant/Episcopalian/crypto-Huguenot prep schools, against the wishes of his Catholic wife:

As the 1920s ended and both John and Joe Jr. entered their teenage years, their father assumed a key role in their educational development. Rose had wanted her sons to attend a Catholic school, but Joe Sr. thought that if they were to compete in the political world, they needed to be with boys from prominent Protestant families. Only such a school, he felt, could make his sons the kind of men he wanted them to be – and at the same time, pave their path to Harvard.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/John_F._Kennedy#Early_life_and_education

In September 1939, Kennedy began eighth grade at St. Paul's School, an elite Protestant private preparatory school for boys in Concord, New Hampshire, that his father favored. Rose Kennedy was unhappy with the school's use of the Protestant Bible. After two months, she took advantage of her ambassador husband's absence from Boston and withdrew Kennedy from St. Paul's. She enrolled him in Portsmouth Priory School, a Benedictine Catholic boarding school for boys in Portsmouth, Rhode Island, which Kennedy attended for 8th through 10th grade.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Robert_F._Kennedy#St._Paul's,_Portsmouth_Priory,_and_Milton_Academy

As far as I know, the Kennedys were the only Irish-Catholics who could afford and were allowed to attend Choate, et al. in those days:

The decision to send the boys to private school, where they would be in closer proximity to children of wealthy and connected families, reflected Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy's desire to prepare the boys for working within America's elite social circles. When John and Joe Jr. enrolled at Dexter, "Kennedy" was the only Irish name listed on the roster.

– <https://archive.is/wr5VB#selection-731.1-731.345> or <https://www.nps.gov/articles/000/a-rise-to-prominence-john-f-kennedy-s-patriarchal-lineage.htm>

Choate means “completed or perfected in and of itself” https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Choate_\(law\)) and maybe that’s why the devoutly Catholic Justice Scalia was so “triggered” by the word/name, since it perhaps reminded him of and he associated it with Protestant rule and superiority, Catholic exclusion from elite circles, etc.

Justice Scalia admonishes lawyer: “Choate ain’t a word”

<https://lawprofessors.typepad.com/legalwriting/2010/01/justice-scalia-admonishes-lawyer-choate-aint-a-word.html> or <https://archive.is/3s2y5>

You know, the opposite of inchoate. Apparently Justice Scalia has been grinding this axe since at least 1992 and “is disgusted by the term’s faulty etymological basis.”

There are cultural connections between Huguenots and Jews, but not genetic ones, as far as I know. Elon Musk also has some Huguenot ancestry “mostly English descent, along with Afrikaner (largely French Huguenot, Dutch, German, and Belgian), Scottish, and German”:

There are quite a few parallels between Jews and Huguenots (French Protestants, some of whom fled France and settled in the Protestant parts of Europe — including Prussia —, North America, etc.)

Both Jews and Huguenots believe they are the direct descendants of the twelve tribes of ancient Israel. To anyone outside these cultures the appearance and customs of a Huguenot and a Jew would have seemed the same and because of indifference and prejudice the majority communities would probably had not made a any distinctions between the two groups. They wore similar attire, they spoke with a strange colloquial accent different from that of the native speaking populations of the host countries and shared the same first names and surnames such as Jacob, Salomon, Sasine, Sasiene, Saseen and Sass.

[...]

I find it curious, and I don't believe that it is entirely coincidental, that two of the main critics of the centralized power of the European Union, multiculturalism, and Muslim mass immigration into Europe, Thilo Sarrazin and Nigel Farage, both have Huguenot ancestors

The Jewish Question is a complicated matter, which I have written on at length and researched in depth. I can't go into all the details, but I think Jewish ethnic networking and nepotism coupled with an above-average verbal IQ and other genetic predispositions (see details below) is one of the explanations for their great financial, academic, etc. success. I do not begrudge them their success, but I think they are often taking it too far and that causes understandable backlashes and resentments from the native populations, that host them. You don't find this with Huguenots, in my experience, they (naturally) integrate more easily and more willingly into their (Protestant) host cultures and countries.

Let's think of the Christian Question as the reverse side of the Jewish Question, if you like: How Christianity has watered down our blood instinct and eroded our kin-based social structure, and thereby made us utterly vulnerable to the manipulation and domination of the most intensively kin-based people. Unless we Westerners humbly reflect on this question, we will continue to pave the way to hell for our children, in the name of Jesus or Democracy. Intensive kinship, I suggest, is the only way to survival. How? I'm better in theory than in practice, so I'll leave that question to others. But one thing is certain: marriage was, is, and always will be the keystone of the social edifice.

Very nice. Christians were seduced by the thought that the whole world could become their potential family and mission field. In theory it sounds good and far more attractive than Jewish ethnic parochialism. The system failed due to the Vatican's addiction to Renaissance artists like Michelangelo Rafael & Da Vinci. The money it spent patronizing these folks plunged it into debt that forced it to scrounge up money via the sale of indulgences that in turn triggered the Protestant Reformation. As soon as the Vatican decided to turn itself into a lavish museum it lost its way and destroyed the possibility of Christian ideological solidarity. And the Protestantism that replaced it dovetailed perfectly with Jewish notions of narrow ethnocentrism parochialism and tribalism. And opened the way for covert Jewish takeovers of Protestant societies.

The fracturing of Christendom also forced Catholics to turn to Jewish bankers for loans to bailout their ever-growing debts. A banking class originally created by the Catholics themselves.

Jews see all this as Divine Providence which forced them to suffer under Edomite Catholicism for 1000 years until the Crusades, when Christian solidarity began to rupture in favor of the Jews.

Like TUR hasn't published a hundred of these tedious essays, we get more of them every other day. What exactly is the countless authors' purpose, remains a mystery? It certainly isn't clearing up any of your minds.

Can't you all see the truth of your wretched existence? Amidst all the exultation of worldly accomplishments, what you all remain are of the pagan godless or the truly godless. It has been so for the entirety of albino civilisation.

For this godlessness you will all burn. Perhaps the righteous amongst you—a minuscule number no doubt—may be shown some mercy, but for rejecting the One and only, none (well, 99.999%) of you will ever witness Paradise. God willing.

What is the need for tomes and tomes of such civilisational analysis? You aren't looking for answers where it will actually mean anything?

Why does Christianity need to be this convoluted? Why aren't we praying directly to the God of Christ, without pagan heresies such as "son of god"? And, so on.

| But marriage is forbidden.

In the case you discuss it's not forbidden but it is mandatory. It's called Levirate marriage or yibum in Hebrew. The brother-in-law can refuse to do it in a ceremony called chalitzah but it's considered more honorable to go ahead and marry the childless widowed sister-in-law. Here's a pretty good popular movie about it:

[Individualism of mediocrity is nothing.]

Would that explain the flurry of tattoos and facial mutilations with pieces of metal among the younger generations of White Europeans?

I do find that the supposedly lack of individualism that is attributed to the followers of strong fascist leaders to be a healthier phenomenon since the collective energy of the followers could be harnessed by the leadership into some positive energy that could defend the nation state or materialise the building of mega projects.

I do wonder if fascism could have been a cure to the social excesses of the church policies that whittled away at the erstwhile tribalism of Western societies which was their best chance to keep the nefarious influence of some Jews at bay.

@Unintended Consequence

This is an inaccurate statement. Russia is strongly anti colonial and anti white right now.

what, by the way is wrong with being anti colonial? Unless it's supposed to be retroactive, which perhaps, Russia does do some virtue signaling along those lines, and yes, it's ugly.

embrace all things Eastern and Muslim, eschew all things Anglo Saxon and Jewish.

While I have nothing against the Anglo Saxon or Jewish people, those regimes (today's Perfidious and ZOG), are the main menace to the world's people. Why wouldn't Russia (and everyone else) condemn today's English (and all other ZOG) governments with every breath they take?

to their Muslim brothers.

when Putin came to power, ZOG, (John McCain and others) were doing all in their power to turn Chechnya into a hotbed of radical Islamic terrorism, and just one more way ZOG was menacing Russia. Putin turned the Muslims into friends and allies. The move of a great statesman and leader.

Whether Christian, communist or globohomo, the uniting of people across ethnic, racial, religious and national boundaries to consolidate power continues.

Assuming you're talking about Russia, I see no evidence of embracing communists, and certainly zero evidence of embracing Globohomo. Putin has railed against Globohomo often and forcefully.

Which is one more reason I like him.

Putin and Orbán probably did share similar views on strengthening ethnic and national ties but Putin and the Russians may have moved from that position permanently.

Orban is the leader of a more or less white, Christian nation. Russia on the other hand is a multi-ethnic and multi-religious entity. With Asians and Muslims and Christians and others.

Why wouldn't Putin want all people who consider themselves Russian, to get along?

I've never been to Russia, (yet), but I doubt you see every commercial or billboard featuring a white woman with a non-white man. Or vice-versa. I think the white Russians are quite content to remain white Russians, and the same for the Muslims and others. What's wrong with that?

I'd advocate the same thing here in Murka. I'd advocate that everyone respect everyone else, with a normal and healthy preference for their own kind.

Why not?

I hold as many feminists have read Das Mutterrecht (J. J. Bachofen 1869) as baizuo have read Das Kapital (with much less excuse, because it is eminently readable; I recommend Konrad Lorenz' On Aggression 1966 –

it does not overtax the female attention span; of course Eybl-Eibesfeldt is better but the newer editions have been Bowdlerized too).

“Patriarchy” is in essence male slavery necessitated by agriculture;

all those oooh male dances are primitive in the literal sense – that's the reason they appeal to the ladies. There is no difference between a Cossack playing with his shashka, a Papua donning bird of paradise feathers and a boar tusk in the nose and the zoot, pimp and thug fashions of the local jogger.

These things cannot sustain a civilization (Lorenz calls it “mousegreying of the male” as a necessary prerequisite for curbing intraspecific aggression; Schopenhauer already famously made fun of the idea of the female as the “beautiful sex” but without understanding the underlying mechanisms).

If you want to live as a jogger among joggers go ahead – just not on my continent.

[Eastern Roman Empire survived and slowly rotted away.]

Not according to the writer of this article who rightly argues that the Byzantium's fall, after having survived from 333 AD to 1453 AD, was precipitated by the fourth crusade that seemingly lost the compass to Jerusalem and went on an orgy of looting of the greatest civilisation that was Constantinople. I would not qualify the Ottoman invaders as savages but their occupation did not so far create the new beginning that would build on the vestiges of the ravaged social order of Constantinople. Had the Russians played the role of the Ottomans and occupied Asia Minor, your theory would have been more likely.

Try reading “The Spiritual Unconscious” by Jean- Claude Larchet (copyright 2020/Alexander Press)- originally published in French as L’inconscient spirituel (Cerf, Paris 2005)-if you can find a copy- for a concise one volume introduction to the topic.

You see it even in those southern races who have been Christianized. They are usually more intelligent and more orderly. Through the grace of God (grace given to some, but not all) God will endow that man with the inward five wits: wit", "imagination", "fantasy", "estimation", and "memory".

Shakespeare, a Catholic during the time of the great "Commotion", and one of the greatest writer of the English language refers to these gifts given to man via the grace of God.

It had no energy, no inspiration. Just corruption, intrigue, and religious oppression.

If Byzantium had retained its grandeur, it wouldn't have lost the Holy Land to the Muslims. It would have withstood the third rate Crusader force.

In fact, there was little left but the city itself.

Why do we need a long and convoluted analysis when it's obvious from the get-go that Christianity is hostile to human community. That's because of its pernicious foundational teaching of original sin that claims humans are to blame for being born into a world of suffering and mortality. This is the ultimate blame the victim mentality and it's the default view of Christianity. In brief Christianity is unable to inculcate any form of healthy self-respect for one's self or one's family tribe or nation because it teaches that humans are inherently depraved. (Calvinists are even worse.)

I imagine the Vatican would prefer a world of seven billion impoverished hovel dwellers, like the barrios of Latin America or Philippines, where every one of them is a tithing Catholic, to the current situation. The Catholic Church is the main driver of human mediocrity race mixing and global impoverishment.

The men of UNZ are knowledgeable about European history and realize the author is full of animosity towards Catholicism. His theological and sociology theories are wrong but to his bigoted mind reasonable. But he's absolutely wrong that the Popes ruled the warlords dukes barons the emperors or the farmers mercantile, tradesmen and businessmen of medieval Europe.

I recommend 4 google searches to refute this article. Googol's not a great university library but you'll find enough to refute the author.

1 Conflicts Pope of Rome Holy Roman Emperors 900AD to 1700AD

2 Avignon Papacy That's when Kings of France kept Pope under palace arrest in France for decades.

3 Sack of Rome 1529

That's the reason Henry 8 left Rome and founded his own religion. Pope couldn't grant Henry his divorce. Because Pope was under house arrest by Charles 5 Holy Roman Emperor. Who was the same Person as Charles 1 King of Spain and its vast overseas territories.

Charles 5&1 and his German troops massacred thousands during the 1529 sack of Rome. And stayed for more than a decade. When Henry requested a papal divorce, Charles 5&1 informed Pope that if Pope granted divorce the Sack and massacres would be repeated worse than before. So much for Charles 1 His Most Catholic Majesty

4 Napoleon Bonaparte captures Rome and kidnaps the Pope.

You really sound like an idiot. The levirate marriage is one of the more merciful laws in the old testament. A woman whose husband dies leaving her childless is in horrible predicament. It will be hard for her to get remarried because she's a widow without a dowry and she has no one to support her. Marriage to a brother-in-law was a great act of mercy. He would provide for her and grant her dignity and self-respect. As well as children who can provide for her in her old age. Maybe you're just a dishonorable old fggt and can't recognize the virtue of this institution.

Most reasonable people see Jacob's willingness to work 14 years for the privilege of marrying the woman he really loved as a sign of genuine love and devotion. Only a twisted old fggt could somehow see this in a sinister light.

Your taxing my attention span because I really have no idea what your going on about. Europa is feminine, by their culture of dance you can tell it was not masculine ruled, the God must have been feminine. Europa being unique in the world of male dominated culture and religion. But the male form becomes grotesque at some point and must now be covered with a leaf or anything. I wonder what happened to them? Not Europa customs. You would think reading a short comment couldn't be so confusing and taxing it's not like a book.

Science itself deals with the physical, in this case material, universe. Those who practice science, whether physicists, chemists, biologists, astronomers etc. can only describe the physical universe. Which is one reason why the “debate” between science and religion is essentially a non-starter (“non-overlapping magisteria” as the late evolutionary biologist, Stephen J. Gould, put it).

Joe Kennedy was embarrassed by his ethnic Catholicism, felt small and insignificant vis a vis the WASPS and so he abandoned his faith and taught his kids to do the same.

The old fool even had his boys get him women to commit adultery with.

JFK cultivated the Catholic vote and then turned on his supporters and supported the eugenics program directed at blacks and his boy Sergeant Shriver directed money to inner-city gangs as head of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Mark 8 For what shall it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, and suffer the loss of his soul?

American Catholic Bishops abandoned the inner city ethnic neighborhoods to get money from the Feds and the Foundations – Rockefeller, Ford etc – as they were suckered into the Civil Rights Model of the gina fraud MLK who was used by men far more intelligent than he.

Ethnic warfare based on ethnic religions with the Jews Quakers and Protestants eager to destroy the budding and building strength of the Catholic Church in America centers in the ethnic – Irish, Polish, German, Lithuanian etc – neighborhoods in the north.

The Quakers were devious and conspired with WASP and Jewish power to subvert the ethnic neighborhoods and although they always blabbered about democracy the ethnic catholic neighborhoods were never told of the plans of the powerful to destroy their unity via “integration” which the ethnic black protestants wanted about as much as ethnic Catholics

I do not take Turchin's cycles blah blah at face value but his basic idea of “elite overproduction” as the driver of revolutions is at least plausible.

Where he is wrong is the New Deal – whatever attributed to it that did work was already instituted by Hoover; only the war economy (unlike in Germany) ended the Great Depression, and the postwar prosperity was due to a war dividend of liberated German patents and the fact that all the competition was bombed flat (both of which ran out in the 1970s) i.e. it was never going to last.

Socialism alone will not even theoretically work, but that's probably the price he paid

Aquinas, the great scholastic, was also the great synthesizer. Notwithstanding he baptized Aristotelianism, there is more than enough Platonism in Aquinas, who...inter alia... said the Natural Law is man's participation in the Eternal Law.

If you're basing your arguments against Christianity on an irreconcilable conflict between Plato and Aristotle, with neo-Platonism as the dominant Western Philosophy over any scholasticism, that's another reason to ignore your historical animosity against the Catholic faith.

You should read and contemplate the book Logos Rising by E. M. Jones, which includes a historicism more grounded in truth than yours.

@Laurent Guyénot

Thank you for these interesting essays Mr. Guyénot. Though I would like to challenge a point or two found in both essays, please keep in mind that it is coming from a reader and admirer of your work. I think something of great value can be derived from these two essays, once these points are met head on. So to that I shall turn. But first, two related quotes from your essay.

In “The Failed Empire”, I have argued that the medieval papacy is responsible for the failure of Europe to reach political unity under German leadership in the medieval period... That the papacy is to praise or to blame for it is hardly in question.

Here I will argue that the medieval papacy is responsible for the creation of the modern Western individual, that rootless man obsessed by his own salvation, identity, and self-realization. I will not deny that Western individualism has produced an exceptional harvest of geniuses in all fields of human culture, and unleashed an unprecedented outpouring of creativity. That, I think, is undeniable. And perhaps it was worth it. I will simply argue that the pathological—and contagious—stage that Western individualism has reached today is the end-result of a program of de-socialization written by the Roman papacy.

Perhaps it would be best for me to first put my response in question form.

Is not reducing European man* and his entire history to a single causal force, the medieval papacy, emanating from a single social institution, the Church too simplistic and reductive?

Or, to put it somewhat differently, Is it not possible that a more adequate explanation would be pluralistic and not governed by a single causal force?

Of course, we could reduce our response to anything to a single causal force if we wanted to. But it wouldn't make it true. Though it very well may point in an interesting direction worth exploring, as it does in the case of your two essays. Nevertheless, it would still mean that such a response was an individual historian's interpretation of the documents they used to write their book, essay, or article.

The point I wish to make is that responses to history are controlled by the interests of the responder, simply because the response to anything is controlled by the interests of the responder. So there can be no such thing as historical truth. Which means it could be said with equal justice that it's not at all true that the cause of Europe's failure to achieve political unity is due to the medieval papacy.

Of course, as with memory, human perception itself is selective (since no one responds to, or remembers, everything). So I am not saying that simplifying a complex matter is bad. Of course not. In fact, it's necessary. I'm just saying that reducing any historical subject to a single causal force may very well turn out to be a judgement made in error.

However, since simplification is necessary, I would suggest that our response to the history of European man, as a way of understanding both his individual and group behavior, might start with by directing attention to a specific human genetic attribute. The justification for this is that all culture is developed in response to that attribute. To make what I'm referring to a bit clearer, and since I started with a question, I'll end with one. And that question is this:

What is the primary attribute of the human brain?+

The justification for asking this question is that it will do much to help us understand human culture in general and European man in particular. Because it is my belief that if there's one thing the historical record makes clear, it's that his response to that attribute has been, in a word, singular and, for good or bad, without equal.

*European man here includes geographical areas of North/South American, Australia, and New Zealand.

+ It's interesting that if one searches this question online, they won't get an answer. But that's not because there isn't one. It's because either the elite don't know, or don't want us to know.

Thank you again for your stimulating and thought-provoking essays.

The provision to marry one's sister-in-law is in Deuteronomy not leviticus. Your stupidity simply confirms what everyone knows that Catholics are woefully illiterate in the Bible they claim as their own!

https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/Levirate_marriage

In the Hebrew Bible, a form of levirate marriage, called yibbum, is mentioned in Deuteronomy 25:5–10, under which the brother of a man who dies without children is permitted and encouraged to marry the widow. Either of the parties may refuse to go through with the marriage, but both must go through a ceremony, known as halizah, involving a symbolic act of renunciation of a yibbum marriage. Sexual relations with one's brother's wife are otherwise forbidden by Leviticus 18 and Leviticus 20.[4]

Jewish custom has seen a gradual decline of yibbum in favor of halizah, to the point where in most contemporary Jewish communities, and in Israel by mandate of the Chief Rabbinate, yibbum is prohibited.

You are correct that the man who deceived Jacob into marrying the wrong sister was wicked. He is not considered a progenitor of the Jewish race. The point is Jacob did not allow his wickedness to deprive him of his duly intended wife. I thought Catholics believe in chivalry?

Can't you find someone else to demonize? How about the Borgia popes with their wives mistresses prostitutes and bastard children right inside the Vatican. Clean your own house first and maybe people will take you more seriously. Short of that you're just a stupid Christocrite.

Roman Catholics are free to call themselves anything they want. It does not make them followers of the man from Nazareth. The term Christian was when first used the same as spitting the word Jew. I can imagine the same types if people throwing insults at Noah.

Alot of $5.00 dollar words thrown around but when taken as a whole me not much more than the words "I love you" from the women of the night.

Of course the perversion of Muhammad would take it to the 1st cousin wherein lurks two heads. There were strict rules of who one could marry in the Hebrew culture; one of the reasons exacting records were kept.

When all is said and done – when the books are opened – it will be shown in technicolor how the Roman/Greek/English inquisition were in it together to stomp out the true church. Didn't happen and we still have in possession the Gospel of the Kingdom of the man from Galilee.

Unfortunately the cons covered every inch of earth in nano and surveillance and their drones go anywhere. Fraud con 'lawyers 'judges 'courts released mass pervs and criminals over last decade and mass 'released more using covid bs, as other cons fund them to live wherever including rural –and further bogus 'law cons 'states' made it so they can change their name under 'seal' so you can't who is who, and note if you search local 'sex offenders' -the cons get your ip address to track who's tracking pervs, to protect their co-criminals, as 'court' cons sit in their 'protected neighborhoods and condos, and otherwise hide among us in front of us, and scrawled themselves 'one mile zone' to threaten people who protest con 'judges' at their houses. Short version, setup set pervs and criminals on others, as cons sit protected by their paper 'laws and bogus police.

Ignorance consequence.

Nowhere different than anywhere else, and if appears so its only temporary.

That said, on article is a good subject, changed orientation and religionism isn't discussed enough. Would debate a bit that shared ideals is about those who share the ideals which sometimes isn't family, and important to connect where able, focus less on individualism, though in any event a thought-provoking article, and appreciate the work.

Canada is a string of cold cities along a rail line. Australia is a string of hot cities along a rail line. In the US and UK, one can travel 180° if by the sea, 360° if inland.

One of my Hudson Valley step-relatives said his town was hurt by being too far from the bridge, and thus had only 180° to work with. Those near the bridge— the Tappan Zee— got the full circle.

It is not possible to have a real discussion about the atomization of European families and peoples without also mentioning what happened in WWI.

In August 1913 before the hidden “Black Hand” secret society assassinated the archduke Ferdinand, most of Europe was still ruled by patriarchal Emporors Nicholas, Wilhelm, George and Franz Josef.

One of the primary goals of the Judeo hidden hand was the destruction of these empires, perhaps with the exception of the British Empire. George V, Winston Churchill and Edward Grey were actively working on behalf of their Jewish overlords to get the war started and the German, Austrian and Russian empires destroyed and broken up. With the break up of these empires, the regicide of the Tsar, and the elimination of the Hohenzollerns and Habsburgs, England and its Jewish elites conquered the commanding heights of European civilization.

But one of the hidden undercurrents that has been uncovered in the ensuing century and its pointless Jew instigated wars, is that the the destruction of the European family was also part of this process.

We can see this in what happened to all the 3 losing empires. In Russia the Judeo-Bolshevics waged a war against Russian patriarchy and Russian families, murdering their elites and sending untold millions to the gulags and to their graves, and also turning children against their families. In Hungary Bela Kuhn fulfilled every Jewish wet dream with the perversion and mind control of the Hungarians and their families. In Weimar Germany the perversion forced on the German family after the Turnip winter, Versailles and hyperinflation crushed the German family and their patriarchy led to the rise of the NSDAP.

It is important to note that WWI was not at all about Christian religions fighting among themselves for domination and control. It was about the destruction of Empires and the loyalty of working classes to their kings. 100 years later, with the forced dark skinned invasion becoming so obvious, the concerted attack against the European family also becomes undeniable.

Katyn forest, where the Polish elites were massacred by the Judeo-Bolshevics is just icing on the Judaic cake of war against the European family.

Jews sucking the blood of children in Hollywood in 2023. Jews sucking the blood of children all across Europe in the middle ages. Jews sucking the blood of children is as old as the Bible. But don't dare blame Jews for the atomization of the European family.

I would also say that the arson of Notre Dame in Paris in 2019, where Disputation of Paris took place in 1240, also serves as nice bookends to the destruction of the European family.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Disputation_of_Paris

The Disputation of Paris, also known as the Trial of the Talmud, took place in 1240 at the court of King Louis IX of France. It followed the work of Nicholas Donin, a Jewish convert to Christianity who translated the Talmud and pressed 35 charges against it to Pope Gregory IX by quoting a series of allegedly blasphemous passages about Jesus, Mary, or Christianity.

Thanks for your input. I basically agree. I try to write as densely as I can, so I avoid long introductions, disclaimers, presentation of my methodology, etc. But I am strongly aware that writing history is always from a certain vantage point. You cannot embrace all causations at the same time. The best you can do is try to find the best standpoint, that offers you the widest view of the subject. And what is interesting is to take a viewpoint that has not been taken in dominant historiography: this is called revisionism: taking the viewpoint of the loser, for example, is interesting, but it doesn't mean that the loser is always right in the way he sees things.

Here I am trying to analyse the effects of the papacy on European history, but I do not pretend that there was no other factors, of course. It is possible that, by focusing on this particular factor, I am exaggerating its importance. But in the scope of an article, I can only analyse one factor. I think it is useful, because this factor is underestimated, but everyone can evaluate how important it is relatively to other factors. There are a lot of theories on the origin of individualism, and this particular theory (it is not mine) was, I think, worth an article.

What you are doing in your comment is exactly what everyone should do: take this viewpoint, evaluate its validity, and connect it to other viewpoints to build a larger picture.

Best

Here are 2 examples of “structured collective prayer”.

Years ago, on some more or less religious radio station, every evening, there'd be a group saying the Hail Mary over and over and over and over...it became like that eastern mantra (Japanese lotus sutra) that you mouth in “meditation” with other people. This Hail Mary performance was apparently not a tape played from one day to the next but a group actually gathering and doing this anew every evening.

Also, a few decades ago, some evangelicals invited me, just a young woman, to attend their church in a tent. I didn't want to go but they showed up at my place and collared me. Near the beginning of the proceedings in that tent, the words of a short song appeared over the stage on a screen (from a projector) and they played it maybe a hundred or who knows, 200 times.

Next thing you know, some people were dancing in the aisles with glazed eyes, not even knowing where they were, probably, and obviously having a grand old time. The song was “This is the day that the lord has made/I will rejoice and be glad in it”. 30 + years later, how could I forget those words. I was mildly weirded-out after hours in that tent and did not join their church.

Just say something again and again and you feel something change in your brain. The presence of many others around you accelerates and embeds the effect, IMO.

When I was young I was a member of such a sect. The self delusion is immense.

The rosary is completely different, I speak from personal experience. But the point is not robotic repetition. I have an old friend (close to eighty), who said many rosaries with her teacher parents. It did nothing for her and now she won't pray the rosary. Her parents explained nothing about the various mysteries that one meditates upon (or supposed to) while praying. They used to beat her black and blue, even though she was a good kid, but not an adroit student, try as she might. She forgave them, saying that they were abused too, but she refuses the rosary.

In a nut shell the traditional rosary has five decades, that is, five units starting with an Our father followed by ten Hail Marys. There are other prayers in it, too, but that is the main body. The five units have each a scene from the gospels and the Acts associated with it (mysteries). That is where the thoughts should be while praying. If one is too listless, then one can concentrate on the words of the prayer. If even that is too much, then simple repetition will do, too. God appreciates the intention.

In the classical rosary there are three different sets of five stories (mysteries); one is for Monday, one for Tuesday, one for Wednesday, then it starts again, and Sunday is a personal choice. So there are fifteen stories, starting from the angel appearing to Mary, the main milestones of Jesus's life, and finishes with him crowning Mary in heaven. (The dormition and the coronation are not in the Bible, but are ancient teachings of the Church.)

I can't say that it will definitely change everyone. But you can see that there is a definite chance of an inner transformation.

“Individualism” depends on the definition, context, culture, group, reference, etc. You have talked about something that nobody has a concrete notion of.

If singular persons that belong to a uniform “conformist” culture (e.g., Japanese, Buddhists, etc) place a high value on group cohesion and conformity to standards, but resist outside pressure and coercion are they more “individualistic”?

The 1960’s free floating, Woodstock Nation hippies, while they thought of themselves as individuals (and rebels)-guffaw-were prone to fashion waves, affectations in behavior, and increasingly “Outer Directed, rather than “Inner Directed”. This binary spectrum has to be included in a discussion of this topic.

Analogously, a person that has the “good” type of group belong and adhesion is likely to benefit by the metaphorical “tether” and “anchor” with which to proscribe bad behavior and malignant actions and thoughts. Strong bonds of association with the Outer Peers leads to a more facilitated Inner sense of confident independence and self identity and uniqueness recognition.

These qualities are know as “Individuation” in Jungian terms.

<https://www.thesap.org.uk/articles-on-jungian-psychology-2/about-analysis-and-therapy/individuation/>

[Individuation is a process of transformation whereby the personal and collective unconscious are brought into consciousness (e.g., by means of dreams, active imagination, or free association) to be assimilated into the whole personality. It is a completely natural process necessary for the integration of the psyche.]

Summarily, there must be a collective that leads to the individual and singularity. One must derive from the other. The Collective Conscious is the box of spare parts that the Persona and Unique Conscious is built from.

Any questions?

Jung's thinking about the Self and its dynamic of individuation separates Jungian analytical psychology from other psychoanalytical schools. He uses the concept of the Self to describe his understanding of who we are and the concept of individuation to describe the process by which we can fulfil our potential to become all that we can be.

The Self

In the Freudian/Kleinian psychoanalytic tradition, the self is described as a by-product of ego development. By contrast, for Jung the self is present before the ego; it is primary and it is the ego that develops from it. The self retains its mystery. We can never fully know or embrace it because we are dependent upon the relatively inferior ego to perceive it. Perhaps this struggle in apprehension has led to very different understandings of the self's qualities.

Jungian analytical psychology sees the self as many things including psychic structure, developmental process, transcendental postulate, affective experience and archetype. It has been depicted as the totality of body and mind, the God image, the experience of overpowering feelings, the union of opposites and a dynamic force which pilots the individual on his/her journey through life. This latter idea is quintessentially Jungian, for even though other psychoanalysts have talked about the self in a similar way, Freudian psychoanalysis still largely sees the self as a structure within the mind, similar to an object representation, and not as a teleological agency.

Individuation

Individuation describes how this agency works. Jung saw it as the process of self realisation, the discovery and experience of meaning and purpose in life; the means by which one finds oneself and becomes who one really is. It depends upon the interplay and synthesis of opposites e.g. conscious and unconscious, personal and collective, psyche and soma, divine and human, life and death. Analysis can be seen as an individuation process. It not only fosters but accelerates individuation and creates conditions in the relationship between patient and analyst which offer the possibility for rarefied experiences and transformation of self which otherwise may not happen. This is because the analytic situation allows both participants to join in a quest for the truth; to express and experience the self in ways which are often prohibited by the compromises made in the service of social acceptance in non-analytic relationships.

The concept of individuation is the cornerstone of Jung's psychology. Here are some of the salient features of his thinking on this topic and some of the questions that arise.

Collective and personal

Jung (1935) stressed that individuation requires the integration of both collective and personal elements. The neurotic condition is one where the collective is denied, the psychotic where the personal is denied and archetypal inflation can overwhelm the ego.

If someone is over concerned with his own personal affairs and status he is in danger of becoming too identified with his persona e.g. the school teacher who is didactic at home, or the analyst who never stops analysing. Living such a blinkered life, focussed on short-sighted and egocentric goals, denies the value of the collective. This can lead to a neurotic narcissistic alienation from a deeper sense of oneself and one's place in society. In psychosis there is an absorption by the collective, where the fascination with the internal world and its processes can lead to a loss of interest in the external personal world of relationships and work.

Most wars are about nothing. They begin in the deranged minds of the rich and powerful and end in the hospital or cemetery for many of the conscripts.

The dark humor during Vietnam was that once drafted you could not even choose between face-up or face-down in the rice paddy, and after a few years only your family would remember or care that you had existed.

You cannot adopt a system half-heartedly. Catholicism is a system. If you adopt it, you have relative individualism but you have also a Catholic government, which protects Catholic identity from other identities. Catholic has always been combined with nationalism: from the Middle Ages kingdoms to National-Catholicism of Francoist Spain.

Islam was sacked from Spain in the name of Catholicism. And Christianity has produced the greatest successes for the white race. This is why it had to be dismantled.

But we now have is the individuality of Christianity without the whole Christianity. We pick and choose the aspects of Christianity that are more attractive for a progressive mentality while rejecting other aspects of Christianity. So, for example, the Parable of the Good Samaritan is constantly promoted. But 1 Timothy 5:8 is forgotten. Thomas Aquinas saying the charity goes in concentric circles (from the family to the nation) is forgotten and so on.

We should adopt Christianity completely or reject it completely. The mix of Christianity with anti-Christianity we have is explosive.

I do wonder if fascism could have been a cure to the social excesses of the church policies that whittled away at the erstwhile tribalism of Western societies which was their best chance to keep the nefarious influence of some Jews at bay.

YES. Fascism works. That is why it was attacked by “international finance capital.” The victors write the historical narratives... they tell lies.

Here is Parenti on Yugoslavia. Note that the “corporatocracy” controlling the western polity, could not stand the example of a “nationalist” Yugoslavia. A country that successfully held its various tribes together under one nationalist umbrella.

Serbs, Croats, Ethnic Muslims, Albanians – all found a way to group together, thus superseding religion and tribe.

Although to be fair, it is always better to have a homogenous country, where a people have a sense of belonging to time and space.

Most historians do not look at the “money” or the desires of “merchants” to gain- say, to take usury, to want what the “other” has.

The Catholic deserves some credit for holding back the Jew and Jewish usury mechanisms, along with propaganda Jewish dialectics, including Protestantism (funded by Manasseh Ben Israel while in Amsterdam). The first printing presses in Amsterdam were put to heavy use printing Bibles, in English. So, the Jew had nefarious purposes to spread his merchant usury methods behind religious cover. It was important to be seen as the “people of the book.”

Civilizations fall, inevitably. They arise spontaneously. Social cohesion of some kind is necessary. But when the originating and spontaneous urge is gradually stifled by an increasingly stratified social order, spontaneity diminishes. An elite class emerges. Naturally preserving their status and wealth depends on endogenously wielded power. ...And force!

Do civilizations emerge spontaneously? In the originating period everyone pulls together, because they must. Of course squabbling and succumbing to all manner of human weaknesses is prevalent, but in the main survival means sublimating impulses which are not conducive to each persons well being. In the beginning success is self evident. Behaving cooperatively relies on a division of labour which is more or less a manifestation of diligent application by individual initiative. Success is a consequence of 'both and' rather than 'this or that.' Cooperation requires three independent energies restlessly manifesting within every being, succumbing to, ideally, a certain inner mastery; but if not inner mastery, then to an an exogenous aim demanding cooperation of these independent energies.

As an example, the first cathedrals could not have been conceived, let alone built, without a certain mastery over otherwise wayward energies. The outer aim required the participants disciplined attention — the mind, the emotions and the body each have their own needs and qualities and energies. Without the attention of a certain inner mastery the mind, emotions and the body fail to work cooperatively within or cooperatively without.

Building these cathedrals, especially the first one, required a preconception. A superior mind was obviously at work conceiving such an endeavour. The built structures were conceived so as to make manifest a tangible representation of both the qualities of the receptive mind and the source of the inspiration.

Clearly this was not imagination at work. Here I mean imagination in the modern calculation, that something external will succour the ravenous ego. What was it that caused thousands of men over three or more generations to devote their lives to cooperatively constructing something never seen before.

Quite obviously the power possessing beings of the time had no interest in cathedral building. They obviously did not understand such an undertaking. Here I emphasize understanding as opposed to knowledge. They couldn't help knowing about such a building gradually emerging in their midst but they failed to understand its implied meaning.

Intellectualizing today dominates almost completely. But most of the intellectualizing is more and more the pouring of the empty into the void. The power possessing today possess nothing of the unity of the mind, emotions, body triad. Neither do the vast majority of people. All three are indisciplined and indulgent energies without any intentional unity of purpose. Were it otherwise the present conditions would not exist — indeed could not exist!

After the power possessing beings realized the power of cathedrals to direct attention away from their proclivities some of them had cathedrals built under their own impulses. Of course they succumbed to the typical and in this case obvious impulse to imitate without understanding. Almost all of the imitations fell down. They were entirely ignorant of a cosmogony made manifest in the material world let alone the cosmogony which the conceiver of such a construction evidently possessed.

One must sincerely doubt the manifested materiality of modern life with its attendant lures to succeed. Releasing one's mind from its captivity requires a necessary strength of mind. Is the modern mind strong or weak? Brainwashing begins at birth. One's parents are brainwashed. One's grandparents were brainwashed. One's antecedents were brainwashed. The power of the need to conform is unimaginably resilient over time. To question one iota of one's received brainwashing is an undertaking akin to untying the Gordian knot. Forget untying it — cut it through and through! Of course this is a lonely endeavour. Do not seek succour from others.

No doubt whatsoever modern life holds captive the developing mind, suppressing real emotion, and enlisting the body in all manner of diversionary activity. Mind, body and emotions are under constant bombardment. Man has been unmade. Children are constantly abused — not only their bodies, which is beastly enough, but their minds are captured, and their real emotions are substituted with, worthless to them, dreck. Children want to please. They are helpless. They are easily ruined...

The original Cathedrals were built to demonstrate the necessity of cooperative existence. They took more than a single generation to finish. They were intentionally conceived.

They were not built as entertainment. They were intentionally representative of what it was necessary for a man to build within. Each of us has the potential to build a cathedral within. It cannot be built in imitation. Each of us has to build our own Cathedral — within. The analogy is certain. The spire points to something higher. Yet, do we look higher? No. We are constantly taken by ordinary life and its demands. Many of these demands are optional. We seldom think that.

We are brainwashed from birth until death. We are constantly conforming to our need for approval and our fear of disapproval. Thus we are agreeable. We simply refuse to say no to our impulses. We do though build walls and battlements. They imprison us just as much as they protect us. Maybe more so!

We have no inner Cathedral. The power of suggestion is a power without match. We are highly suggestible to a fault. What are we to do?

To begin with try not 'doing' — begin with that. Then you will see the certain impossibility of all the suggestions to 'do' something. As we are, we cannot 'do.' We are already machines. We behave mechanically. Exactly like those power possessing beings behaved when they imitated something authentic. The imitation cathedrals fell down. A real cathedral is frail in appearance only. But an inner Cathedral has strengths which afford the resilience necessary to defend against ordinary life.

Interesting factoids about the Huguenots. Was not aware that they thought of themselves as lost tribes of Israel. Other calvinists espouse the idea of being “God’s Elect” but do not go this far.

Yes,

Huguenots were probably among the *WEIRD*est (Western, Educated, Industrialized, Rich and Democratic)

All wars are bankers wars, and Jews have been the lords of the fiat/fractional banking system for centuries. Of course the Rothschild dynasty has long been the kings of the Jews.

Gutle Schnapper Rothschilds said “If my sons did not want wars, there would be none”. Similarly she could have said “If my sons did not want European ethnic kinship destroyed, then they still would have strong families”.

The perfectly coordinated and sychronized dark skinned invasions of every country in what used to be called “the west” is also something that never could have happened if Gutle’s heirs had not wanted it to happen.

Yes, “white nationalists” should convert to Judaism.’ They should either convert to Judaism, or do DMT (go back to tutelary deities, spirit familiars, and ancestor worship) and engage in polygyny. They won’t though. They are vicariously living through the last few hundred years of Northwestern European creativity. It is obvious why they are being replaced.

Why aren’t we praying directly to the God of Christ, without pagan heresies such as “son of god”?

“Pagan”... ?

When Jesus came to the region of Caesarea Philippi, He questioned His disciples: “Who do people say the Son of Man is ?” They replied, “Some say John the Baptist; others say Elijah; and still others, Jeremiah or one of the prophets.” “But what about you?” Jesus asked. “Who do you say I am ?” Simon Peter answered, “You are the Christ [Heb. MESS’-iach, Messiah, or, Messenger], the Son of the living God.”

but from personal experience in the alpine reservations that survived the Counterreformation because road access was precarious until the 1850s – hah, I love it!

Correct, one of those Protestant “alpine reservations” — where Arnold Schwarzenegger “My thoughts and prayers are with you all in Ramsau, where I was often allowed to be a guest.”

<https://archive.is/NmOVj> and his mother frequently “summered” — is Ramsau am Dachstein:

The name Ramsau was first recorded as Ramsowe in a document dated to around 1120 AD. Important landowners during the feudal period and beyond were the abbeys of Admont and St. Peter’s. After the events of the Reformation and the Counter-reformation of the 16th century, the relatively secluded Ramsau emerged as one of the few thoroughly Protestant communities in Austria; something which it remains to this day. As early as the 15th century, the area established a tradition in the manufacture of loden, a thick cloth used in the traditional dress of the wider region <https://ms-my.facebook.com/Lodenwalker1434/videos/besuch-arnold-schwarzenegger/10158651810120657/> With the advent of commercial tourism in the late 19th century the area gained another steady source of income.

– https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ramsau_am_Dachstein#History

One branch of our family bought property in Ramsau in the 1960s (which one of my aunts inherited and still owns today), and we were only permitted to buy that property because we are Protestants, and this Protestant real estate “redlining” policy is still in place today since the community wishes to remain culturally Protestant, but they might make an exception for the Catholic Schwarzenegggers, Kennedys and Shrivvers

Another branch of our family is from the Isère “alpine reservations” region

Very interesting essay.

I always thought it was worth noting what Jesus said to those who were to become his disciples:

Some version of “Leave your family and follow me.”

That must have been a very welcome invitation, and opportunity, for, say, younger sons.

Obviously, the sequence of birth dramatically affects every aspect of a child’s and later adolescent’s and young person’s psychology and their options in life. The eldest may be a bully and will probably have the best marriage prospects and choices. The youngest girl may be Daddy’s favorite, etc.

This is not to challenge M. Guyenot’s sources, theories, and narrative, which are genuinely interesting.

But, we know that families are also prisons.

I just have always thought that Jesus did offer many people a way out of their social prisons (think, too, of Mary and Martha—what was the backstory there??) , including, very likely, the young men he picked up by the side of the road whom he not only invited but basically urged to get away from their families. Be all that you can be—not what your families say you must be. Hit the road with me!

In certain Catholic families (for example the traditional Irish Catholic family) it was most common for the youngest to become a priest.

I believe in medieval Europe the nobility often sent younger sons into the clergy as well.

Speaking of Rothschilds and dynasties, every Rothschild son was required to marry a cousin or member of extended R. family.

The daughters could “marry out.”

Possibly the “outmarriage” by the daughters was enough to introduce enough fresh DNA to prevent the worst consequences of all of the endogamy.

According to some records of the Lewis & Clark expedition, it included a strapping young black fellow, and quite a few Indian lodges along the way were glad to have a visit from him. The small groupings of American Indian tribes recognized the need for new blood.

This is recounted in the book Sacajawea, which draws on the journals and records extant from that expedition to create a somewhat novelized account of the journey. Very good read, BTW.

Actually it is true that the Mormons do not believe in conventional Catholic original sin. I spent a number of years with the Mormon community here in Colorado. Their theology is quite convoluted but my recollection regarding the story in Genesis 3 is that Adam and Eve faced a simple choice with no right or wrong. They could choose to be solitary immortal beings or they could choose to procreate offspring and suffer mortality in the process. The benefit being that their myriad offspring would upon dying become immortal heavenly beings. It might sound like science fiction or nonsense but in truth they do not accept the Catholic guilt-ridden myth that Adam and Eve sinned and created a world of suffering death and decay. In the Mormon view Adam and Eve joyfully accepted mortality in exchange for having innumerable descendants destined for spiritual glory.

Another thing to remember is Mormons believe that our universe is only one of an infinite number of universes with intelligent life. Every Mormon who dies and attains the highest spiritual reward inherits a planet and becomes a God creator of life via eternal celestial sex with his wives. And so on ad infinitum.

A religious person (non-Catholic variety) explained it to me this way: that we are not sinners because we sin, but we sin because we are sinners, meaning that we all fall short of the glory of God and therefore cannot possibly get everything right all the time. It is inevitable that we will behave imperfectly (“sin”). I prefer this version.

If the Rothschild males were required to marry cousins, then logically the all the Rothschild females would have to marry their cousins or the equation wouldn't balance.

We also have to consider all the illegitimate Rothschild spawn. There are rumors about Stalin and IIRC Trotsky being having the Sabbatean blood as well. Some even claim Hitler was a Rothschild.

If we look at Rothschild family trees they always start with Nathan. But if his sons all married Rothschilds the implication would be that there was already an extended Rothschild tree by the late 1700's.

Jacob Schiff, son of a famous Rabbi, was born while the family was living in the Bauer house in the ghetto of Frankfurt. I cannot even start to imagine what kind of incestuous Sabbatean relations were going on there, right about the same time that the Rothschild agent and C-Jew Adam Weishaupt started the Illuminati on his behalf. Later an Illuminati/Rothschild courier carrying the plans for the revolution was struck by lightning in 1785 on the eve of the French revolution.

It is also important to note that globo-homo an wokeism was already on the march in pre-revolutionary France with sodomy, cross dressing and Marquis de Sade raging through the aristocracy.

Well, I think this view is common to all Christian denominations however the lack of Original Sin was a major departure from the past. For example, the LDS church teaches children are without sin until the age of 8. In another flavor of Christianity with which I am familiar, Calvinism, (as I was raised with these beliefs) we are saved by God’s grace alone so in some sense it does not really matter how much you sin. You are either God’s elect or you aren’t. That’s why Calvinism is the form of Protestantism closest to the Jewish idea of being God’s chosen race.

Mormonism and Catholicism both emphasize salvation by works, meaning you have to do good things to get to heaven. In Calvinism everyone is born bad and God sort of arbitrarily decides some are saved, but you don’t really know who until after you are dead. Combined with the doctrine of predestination (a doctrine that says God has pre-planned everything, i.e. no free will) I would argue Calvinism is a very warlike construction of Christianity.

Women's involvement in society is such a significant change yet very very few people on the "based" right will talk about whether that was a net positive.

After the necessary political changes I do not think women will have any rights at all. Nick Fuentes has been suppressed even by the right but he's exceedingly popular whenever he gets a spot.

I thought I heard some kind of quote (speaking of the French Revolution) like "before the revolution, the women had all the power, but after it they had none at all." Predictably impossible to google.

Very interesting. I definitely have to study Huguenot history. How can I pretend to understand anything about Europe, let alone France, without getting a clear understanding of this part of the story?

I'll start with Geoffrey Teasure's The Huguenot

(I love publishing on unz.com, because comments always open up new trails to explore.)

I might have Huguenot ancestors: Guyénot probably comes from people deported by Louis XIV from Guyenne (around Bordeaux, a Huguenot stronghold, I believe).

In any case, I do believe that Louis XIV's revocation of the Edict of Nantes not only sealed the fate of France, but had a tremendous impact on Europe, due to the emigration of the best minds of France.

Christianity is such a tragedy!
