Podle většiny názorů se rozhodnutí Nejvyššího soudu 6-3, které ruší politiku pozitivních akcí Harvardské univerzity a dalších amerických vysokých škol, zdá být podstatně silnější a rozsáhlejší, než mnozí očekávali. I když je těžké přesně předvídat, jak se tento právní precedens vyvine, vítězství těchto asijských žalobců může znamenat velký potenciální obrat ve vlně politiky rasové „diverzity“, která se jinak zdála být v posledních několika letech zachvácená všemi. let. Ještě nedávno v květnu 2022 jsem byl docela skeptický, že by Nejvyšší soud byl ochoten zrušit téměř padesát let právních precedentů v této otázce, a jsem velmi rád, že se ukázalo, že jsem se zcela mýlil.

Vzhledem k roli mé vlastní analýzy meritokracie z konce roku 2012, která původně vyvolala tuto žalobu, budu citovat několik odstavců z mého doprovodného sloupku New York Times :

Stejně jako jejich předchůdci z dvacátých let vždy popírali existenci „židovských kvót“, nejvyšší představitelé na Harvardu, Yale, Princetonu a dalších školách Ivy League dnes existenci „asijských kvót“ důrazně popírají. Existují však silné statistické důkazy o opaku.

Americké univerzity každý rok poskytují údaje o svých rasových zápisech Národnímu centru pro statistiku vzdělávání, které tyto informace zpřístupňuje online. Poté, co ministerstvo spravedlnosti na počátku 90. let uzavřelo vyšetřování obvinění, že Harvardská univerzita diskriminovala asijsko-americké uchazeče, začal Harvardský hlášený počet asijských Američanů postupně klesat, z 20,6 procenta v roce 1993 na zhruba 16,5 procenta za většinu posledního desetiletí. . Tento pokles se může zdát malý. Ale tytéž roky přinesly obrovský nárůst americké asijské populace ve vysokoškolském věku, která se mezi lety 1992 a 2011 zhruba zdvojnásobila, zatímco počty nehispánských bílých zůstaly téměř nezměněny. Podle oficiálních statistik tak procento asijských Američanů zapsaných na Harvardu za poslední dvě desetiletí kleslo o více než 50 procent, zatímco procento bílých se změnilo jen málo. Tento pokles relativního asijsko-amerického zápisu byl ve skutečnosti větší než dopad židovské kvóty na Harvardu z roku 1925, která snížila židovské prvňáčky z 27,6 procenta na 15 procent.

Procento vysokoškoláků z Asie-Američanů zapsaných na většině ostatních škol Ivy League během stejného období také kleslo a během několika posledních let se počet asijských studentů na těchto různých univerzitách sblížil na velmi podobnou úroveň a zůstal v průběhu času statický. To vyvolává podezření na společnou politiku Ivy League, která má omezit asijsko-americká čísla na určité procento.

Tato statistická zjištění byla ilustrována v jednoduchém grafu, který demonstroval, že za poslední dvě desetiletí se zápis asijských Američanů postupně sblížoval v celé Ivy League, přičemž se prudce lišil od rychle rostoucí asijsko-americké populace, přičemž pokračoval pouze přísně meritokratický Caltech. sledovat to druhé. Bylo by těžké si představit zjevnější vizuální důkaz asijské kvóty implementované napříč Ivy League a tento graf byl znovu publikován Times a velmi široce šířen mezi asijsko-americkými organizacemi a aktivisty, kteří zahájili svůj soudní proces v následujícím roce. Takže historické knihy mohou nakonec zaznamenat, že nejbohatší a nejmnocnější univerzita na světě byla snížena jediným nápadným grafem.

Trends of Asian enrollment at Caltech and the Ivy League universities, compared with growth of Asian college-age population; Asian age cohort population figures are based on Census CPS, and given the small sample size, are subject to considerable yearly statistical fluctuations. 22. října 2018 jsem diskutoval o zahájení soudního sporu na Harvardu a jeho původu:

Tento minulý týden začal u federálního soudu v Bostonu soud kvůli současnému soudnímu sporu, ve kterém sbírka asijsko-amerických organizací obviňuje Harvardskou univerzitu z rasové diskriminace ve své politice přijímání na vysoké školy. New York Times, naše celostátní rekordní noviny, poskytovaly téměř denně zpravodajství o vývoji případu, přičemž příběhy se někdy dostaly na titulní stránku. Minulou neděli, těsně před zahájením soudního řízení, vydal Times velký článek vysvětlující obecné pozadí sporu a velmi mě potěšilo, že můj vlastní výzkum z minulosti byl citován jako důležitý faktor podněcující soudní spor, přičemž reportér dokonce včetně přímého odkazu na můj titulní příběh o 26 000 slovech z roku 2012 „Mýtus americké meritokracie“, který poskytl silný kvantitativní důkaz o protiasijských rasových kvótách. Ekonomický historik Niall Ferguson, dlouho jeden z nejprominentnějších profesorů Harvardu, ale nedávno odešel na Stanford, podobně zaznamenal roli mého výzkumu ve svém sloupku pro London Sunday Times.

Před dvěma desetiletími jsem v The Wall Street Journal publikoval široce diskutovanou zprávu o poněkud podobných otázkách rasové diskriminace při přijímání elit. Ale můj novější článek byl mnohem delší a obsáhlejší a rozhodně vzbudil větší pozornost než cokoli jiného, co jsem kdy publikoval, předtím nebo potom. Poté, co se objevila v The American Conservative, její stovky tisíc zobrazení stránky překonaly všechny rekordy této publikace a přitáhla značnou pozornost v médiích. Sloupkař Times David Brooks jej brzy zařadil jako možná nejlepší článek roku v americkém časopise, verdikt podpořil špičkový redaktor The Economist a Times sám rychle uspořádal symposium na téma Asijské kvóty, kterého jsem se s nadšením zúčastnil. Forbes, The Atlantic, The Washington Monthly, Business Insider a další publikace všechny diskutovaly o mých pozoruhodných výsledcích.

Konzervativní kruhy projevíly značný zájem, Charles Murray zdůraznil moje zjištění a National Review později publikoval článek, ve kterém jsem vysvětlil důležité důsledky svých zjištění pro právní platnost rozhodnutí Bakkeho z roku 1978 Nejvyššího soudu USA.

Značná reakce byla i ze strany akademické obce samotné. Rychle jsem obdržel pozvání od Yale Political Union, Yale Law a University of Chicago Law School, zatímco profesor Ferguson diskutoval o mé znepokojivé analýze v dlouhém sloupku Newsweek /Daily Beast s názvem „Konec amerického snu“.

Kromě toho jsem také zveřejnil související kritiku naznačující, že se moje milovaná Harvardská alma mater v průběhu let proměnila v jeden z největších světových hedgeových fondů se zbytkovou školou připojenou pro účely osvobozené od daní. To také vyvolalo obrovskou diskusi v mediálních kruzích, přičemž liberální novinář Chris Hayes to tweetoval a velkoryse prohlásil, že je „velmi žárlivý“, že článek nenapsal sám. Mnoho z jeho kolegů propagovalo dílo s podobně příznivými poznámkami, zatímco univerzita rychle reagovala na tyto vážné finanční poplatky slabou veřejností.

Mezitím, aniž bych o tom věděl já nebo jiní vnější pozorovatelé, Harvard sám zahájil interní vyšetřování protiasijské zaujatosti, kterou jsem tvrdil. První výsledky univerzity očividně obecně potvrdily moje obvinění a naznačovaly, že pokud by byli studenti přijímáni pouze na základě objektivních akademických zásluh, mnohem více Asiatů by dostávalo tlusté obálky. Vrchní administrátoři Harvardu však studii pohřbili a neudělali nic, přičemž tato důležitá fakta vyšla najevo až po letech během procesu odhalování současného soudního sporu o asijské kvóty.

Následuje výběr mých delších nebo důležitějších spisů na toto téma. Zveřejnění mého článku o Meritokracii o 26 000 slovech na konci roku 2012 vyvolalo řadu navazujících sloupků, které se zaměřovaly na konkrétní prvky mé analýzy, diskutovaly o výsledném sekundárním mediálním pokrytí a odpovídaly na různé kritiky a komentáře:

Konečně, toto rozhodnutí vrchního soudu jistě povede k intenzivnímu zaměření na statistiky zápisu na našich elitních univerzitách. Po celá desetiletí byly všechny tyto vysoké školy povinny poskytovat svá demografická data Národnímu centru pro statistiku vzdělávání, kvazivládnímu subjektu, který tyto informace zpřístupňuje veřejnosti, i když ne ve vhodném formátu. Nicméně jsme stáhli a zobrazili stejná demografická data pro všechny tisíce amerických vysokých škol na naší vlastní webové stránce, takže jsou snadno dostupné pro každého, kdo se o to zajímá.

Zde jsou odkazy poskytující vysokoškolskou demografickou historii za roky 1980-2021 pro různé vybrané vysoké školy:

This is a big win for Equal Protection, and a share of the credit has to go to Ron Unz.

The decision will help soothe the racial animosities afflicting America nowadays. Speaking for myself, a promise of fair treatment has reduced my commitment to White Nationalism 75% from this morning.

Of course, it is still only a promise.

Although it is difficult to predict exactly how this legal precedent will play out, the victory of these Asian plaintiffs may mark a major potential reversal in the tide of racial “diversity” policies that had otherwise seemed to be sweeping all before it during the last few years.

These colleges are going to rely more on the essays by the applicants about their racial backgrounds.

Given that the admissions employees are often uneducated, maybe white students could write about their working class parents or grandparents in order to appear simpatico. Even better if they can emphasize a connection with a particular regional or ethnic culture.

Whats strange about the Harvard decision is the HUGE elephant in the room (aside from not mentioning Unz’s name as Lord Voldemort effect):

That WOMEN gain the most from affirmative action, not just in colleges but in everywhere! This can all be traced to Title VII in 1964 civil rights act (and in turn to soviet communism). Women are in huge college and jobs admissions benefiting from affirmative action unnaturally far more than racial minorities ever could.

So when will the 101st Airborne be sent in to enforce this ruling like they did in Little Rock?

When do we get to see armed soldiers pulling low-scoring black and Jewish students out of classrooms they don't deserve to be in, and putting high-scoring Asians and whites in their places, in accordance with the meritocratic American Way? That will be happening any day now right? On the topic of the American Way and American Values, have Israel's schools be integrated with their local minorities yet, or are they still segregated?

Affirmative Action has never been my cup of tea. And that goes with any system that rewards mediocrity. That, by the way, includes Jewish mediocrity, which is protected not by AA, but by the all pervasive antisemitic and holocaust cards.

However, so far as I know – no matter how passionate the denials, nothing that I can see will erase White r@cism from the Supremacist mindset. And that is where any legislation simply cannot reach or impact. This has nothing to do with unearned privileges.

Legislation against entrenched attitudes, temperaments embedded in the psyche is futile. America's claims of attempts at winning the hearts and minds of the millions it conquered, occupied, brutalized and killed by the millions has done zilch to accomplish that at home, like educating on the merits of tolerance and respect, empathy, compassion, rapport, etc. Try telling this to DeSantis.

Roberts left a loophole, not that it matters much, since colleges will just ignore the court if they feel like it.

the Supremes also allowed any service academy to continue with AA.

of course it's a good ruling considering the last 50 years, but not a great ruling. no Roberts loophole, no academy exemption would have been better.

and it's only helpful if there is vigorous enforcement. which remains to be seen.

I hope everybody understands that this ruling will lead to more diversity not less. The asian percentage will greatly increase and has already, Ron's chart is still stuck in 2011! The white population is declining and Blacks and Hispanics will find other ways to bypass this ruling. The Jewish percentage has been declining for a decade already. Ron is simply not up to date.

After offering to give Palestinians less rights than that envisioned in Lord Balfour's 2 Nov. 1917 "Declaration" to Lord Rothschild, Bobby Jr. stepped in it big & bad a second time today, with this filth:

1] Regarding the Supreme Court banning affirmative action in higher ed — I know many Americans feel that purely race-based decisions are unfair. However, this feeling misses important context. The effects of racist policies going back centuries are now self-perpetuating (sic).

2] Affirmative action (sic) understands this and uses race-based policies to undo the effects of racist policies.

3] "Color-blind" admissions tend to favor those who are already in the circle of privilege. It favors those who grew up in affluent, educated (sic) households. Wouldn't you like to invite in those who have been left out in the cold?

Regarding the Supreme Court banning affirmative action in higher ed — I know many Americans feel that purely race-based decisions are unfair. However, this feeling misses important context. The effects of racist policies going back centuries are now self-perpetuating.

— Robert F. Kennedy Jr (@RobertKennedyJr) June 29, 2023

Either he didn't read the decision, or took the liberty to be incoherent. Of note, Massachusetts Governor Maura Healey — minutes after decision published online — issued an incoherent statement of her own, that included signatures from nearly all college and university presidents in this state [& numerous senior officials in her government]. I wonder how some of those sitting on boards of trustees feel, since none of them would have voted to authorize this political statement on their behalf by their college president — as none of them would have read 237 page decision including dissent. And I'd guess few signing it read this, either.

Completely absent in Healey's political conspiracy-stunt are any working class people — regular citizens outside of formal organizations. At no point does she claim the decision is unconstitutional.

What is one to make of an entire state government apparatus licking boots of “the wealthiest and most powerful university in the world”?

The problem — and potential ethics violations of Massachusetts governor — in a nutshell is that: Supreme Court affirmed that institutional racism — as practiced by Harvard, etc., violates equal protection under the law, i.e., 14th Amendment to US Constitution in articular.

As a matter of law, the constitution designed to protect individuals against institutions [against tyranny], and their abuse of “the little guy” as it were. In other words, against tyranny of the institution and all its means and power, against the individual, veritably naked against Goliath/Institution.

Here in Massachusetts, the institution of our state government — instead of accepting the fact that this institutional racism was practiced by the wealthiest and most powerful university in the world — instead is doubling down to defend wealthy elites, at expense of the individual. This used to be antithetical to everyone who claimed membership in Democrat Party [of which I'm still a member]. This Party now uses an entire state government apparatus to swear by the institutionally racist policies and actions at Harvard. [In a similar manner, under Republican Governor Charles Baker, Massachusetts, with highest proportion of covid deaths in the world — and this happened in a state with largest medical industrial complex in the country; zero accountability, in other words, went hand and glove with public health failure after failure.]

The June 29, 2023 court decision stated that a big “risk is that race would be used not as a plus, but as a negative—to discriminate against those racial groups that were not the beneficiaries of the race-based preference. A university’s use of race, accordingly, could not occur in a manner that ‘unduly harm[ed] nonminority applicants.’”

“But we have permitted race-based admissions only within the confines of narrow restrictions. University programs must comply with strict scrutiny, they may never use race as a stereotype or negative, and—at some point—they must end. Respondents’ admissions systems—however well intentioned and implemented in good faith—fail each of these criteria. They must therefore be invalidated under the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment”.

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/22pdf/20-1199_hgdj.pdf

Either Kennedy believes in the US Constitution or he does not. On one hand, we possess free expression, right to carry, that he vociferously supports; yet institutions may practice institutional racism, including his Harvard Alma Mater — despite its patent illegality under our constitution — according to him, our governor, and an assortment of political animals calling themselves college and university presidents.

This decision may return and/or focus the issues of class and social/economic status, as key determinant of ones place in the pecking order of society — and end the folly now practiced far and wide — especially at Massachusetts colleges and universities — of using race as the Trojan Horse “gold standard” “indicator” of class and social/economic status. If this decision can begin to do that, then it will have accomplished something in the public interest, and possible betterment of working class, working poor and destitute.

I am not so foolish to believe this country would ever elect someone from working class again; when men speak as charlatans, despite all their other excellent positions on issues, it is duty of patriotic Americans to call out their blatant dishonesty and deceptions, period. As a practical matter, Harvard has never been in the business of fostering democracy; it is in the business of exactly what Kennedy express in his unfortunate statement: create illusion they speak for the people. They don't, they can't and they don't know how to assuming they ever wanted to. This is not amoral, rather, this is class warfare, and Supreme Court to their credit took a sledge hammer to this charlatanism ongoing for decades in higher ed. . . .Anytime status quo is institutionally upended in favor of working class against upper class, that is a good day, however rare that may be. . . .

PS

Run Unz, thank you for all your hard work over many years on this.

None of this makes a bit of difference. Whether the university is run and/or occupied by Jews or Asians, and their poc pets and obedient white useful idiots, Asiatic Barbarism will continue to replace Western Civilization. In fact, we're already there.

Since the sun is setting on free speech, and TUR is known as a free speech site, let's speak freely.

The university is a European conception. It was the creation of white men.

It is now run by those who hate white men. It has been for ages. So, it is now no longer a university. It might still be called that. But it isn't one, and for a reason devoid of any complexity.

The university will always be a product of the culture, as is any social institution. For this reason the university depends far more on the culture in which it is immersed than it does on the pedagogical atmosphere created artificially within it.

But the university has abandoned the teaching and transmission of culture. And we are living with the sinister consequences. Just look around.

The idea of the university, which took centuries to develop, was to become cultured.

Not "cultured" in any ornamental sense. One doesn't become cultured so they can quote Shakespeare at dinner parties. Not at all. They become cultured by learning the vital system of ideas that the civilization lives by, to both survive and to enhance the quality of life.

Say that out loud at any "university" today and you'll be arrested for inciting a riot.

That is if you survive (in itself rather doubtful).

The university is not supposed to be a place where one goes to simply become a professional, a specialist, or to do research. In short, a learned ignoramus. It is a place where one is supposed to learn the system of ideas that serve as an effective guide to our existence.

As Ortega said almost 80 years ago, “Culture is what saves life from being a mere disaster. It is something that enables man to live a life which is something about human tragedy and inward disgrace.”

But that’s exactly what life has become, especially university life, because it has abandoned the teaching and transmission of culture. The university today is a Barbarian Factory. It produces, or should I say, deposits a sub-human collective that is primitive in relation to their problems. Problems which are grimly and relentlessly modern!

And now we’re back to why none of this makes a bit of difference. Whether the university is run and/or occupied by Jews or Asians, etc. Asiatic Barbarism will continue to replace Western Civilization. In fact, we’re already there.

So the history books may eventually record that the wealthiest and most powerful university in the world was brought low by a single striking graph.

So in spite of the constant waxing about freedom and equality being universal values, Jim Crowe was alive and doing quite well (thank you) in the Ivy League, all this time.

The flagrant double standard is simply outrageous. Reminds me of the Joseph Sobran quote that whenever you observe a double standard, look for the single standard.

Fantastic resolution to the story of Ron's truly slaying a many-headed dragon.

Obviously, Ron's graph is even more damning, than proving the lawsuit against Harvard, which could have claimed to be an innocent mistake or institutional momentum or something, it definitively also proves direct collusion to discriminate against Asians at all the Ivys. Meaning that they definitely got together and agreed to discriminate and not allow more than 16% Asians in the student body; and they all stuck to the bargain!

Leaving behind them this crystal clear and perfectly preserved trail of corruption and crime which went on for at least a decade until discovered by a very astute and intrepid observer.

Had this been done against blacks or Jews, this outrage would have been a national scandal of momentous proportions in the whole country. It would have spawned mass resignations in all the schools, truth and reconciliation commissions, and of course, massive class-action lawsuits against these institutions and against the individuals involved.

As things currently stand, however, look for the deafening sound of trees falling in forests and one-handed clapping.

Or else the deafening sound of obfuscation in order to hide their outrageous hypocrisy.

OK, so this will allow marginalized Whites to rightfully be admitted to universities that are committed to anti-White organizations. This is a win?

Not to mention the fact that even if more Whites are now accepted, and then get degrees, they are still not going to be hired by woke employers (or certainly those who will not resist the government's insane quotas with regards to DEI). This will not affect Asians to the extent it does Whites. But what good is a college degree if you cannot be employed in the field in which you studied (and probably spent a moderate amount of taxpayer dollars to receive said degree)?

This was not a victory for anybody. Definitely not hyphenated Americans. Now Whites and Asians will receive their spots by merit and intelligence, which will result in more resentment for those non-White, non-Asians who feel marginalized (but strangely entitled). The aggrieved minority will predictably wail (which, ironically, will not include the Asian minority). But since it has been proven that this minority will never be anything other than a minority — thus the court's ruling — it is a step in the right direction to get capable people in the positions in which they belong regardless of race.

Or do you trust your government to install the “right” people to do it? I mean, they have done such a great job so far.

Mr Unz, you're getting "lost in the woods" here.

This "just" in:

The US government has absolutely _no_ original constitutional authority to be involved in education in any way, shape or form.

Government interference in "education" has effectively already destroyed education facilities and institutions in the US.

They are all now mostly mere government propaganda outlets that do little more than heavily indoctrinate all students into a "government knows best/government works/ government can solve our problems" proto communist/fascist mindset, when the naked truth is, as a minimally government "educated" famous rock star famously once astutely observed:

"Everything the government touches turns to crap" [Ringo Starr]

Fully private, free market education institutions of any type should be completely free to allow or refuse entry to their particular institution for any reason it/they so choose, whether their admission decisions are based on race, religion, or something else.

Supposedly favourable Supreme Court decisions are a mere useless, cosmetic distraction that ultimately will make little or no difference to the present functioning of governments wholly criminal/fraudulent indoctrination/"education" racket.

As long as the government continues to fund and regulate most "educational" facilities, its criminal fraudulence will continue, by any means necessary, unabated, regardless of any Supreme Court decision.

As with many other areas of our lives that the US federal government now very effectively mismanages and destroys [see Ringo Starr quote above] , the US government needs to be gotten entirely out of its criminally fraudulent “education” racket.

“We’ve got to start us a new revolution
And get back to the old constitution
We’ve got to stand up and fight for the whole Bill of Rights
Its time to start over again”

From song: “New Revolution”:

Most Americans will be happy that we are done with affirmative action, the “other” A.A., and I am delighted that Ron has achieved one of his life goals, a merit-based education system. Since AA has been in place for about 50 years, the process of dismantling it is a challenge.

Instead of giving Blacks and Hispanics a boost in math and science, I propose that we handicap Asians by requiring them to use an abacus and slide rule, allowing others to have a laptop, calculator and a one hour head start.

Government hiring and promotion practices will prove resistant since so many managerial positions are now held by AA beneficiaries. Brace yourself for shock and awe if this bunch is capable of actual merit-based hiring.

I don't think it will make any difference.

“Meritocracy” is not a good concept anyway. First, pure meritocracy is impossible, there's always nepotism and networking, and second, well, while I suppose it is a bit better being replaced by smart Asians instead of dumb Africans, in the end, it is not a great idea either, at least from the replaced people's point of view.

Still, if they remove AA, that's good. I haven't looked into the actual decision.

It looks like someone up there started getting it that one need intelligent, well educated and gifted people to run the system, build weapons and technologies to compete with China and so forth so on. They cannot do it with affirmative actions bringing more morons into higher education. Hence the trend will be reversed. For me it doe snot matter the race or ethnicity of those who are admitted. It is all about merit and performance. If blacks and Latinos cannot perform, I feel for them. Probably they should study more and learn form those high performing students. I also wold like to add that my son who is my pride, passed local government exam and finished number one in large metropolitan area of the Northern America setting record for the past 3 years among students of his age. I and my White children have been victims of “Affirmative Action”.

I was honorably discharged from the US army in 1976 after two years of service. I took the army battery of tests and qualified for every army job (electronics, finance, computers etc). Imagine my surprise when I went to Illinois Bell looking for employment and being told that they were only hiring minorities. Almost the same response at the post office.

Same thing happened to my children. They applied to a Chicago public high school (Northside College Prep). The enrollment at this school would be based on test scores and grades. When the administration found out that the school freshman population would be 75% White children they had a Sh##Fit and imposed a quota of 35% limit on White children. The total public school system population at that time was only 8% White.

Yea, so since that time I have ill will towards Negroes and so called Hispanics. Some might call it hate but since hate is now a crime I will refrain from using that term.

You think for one minute that anybody in Harvard or elsewhere in college Marxistvilles is going to stop from doing racial quotas? Harvard says that applicants will have to write an essay. Well, “I’m first generation Columbian immigrant”—You’re in. “I’m from an impoverished oppressed black area of Chicago”—You’re in.

This decision means nothing. For they will continue on as before but secretly! Wink, Wink, Nod, Nod. Grand Valley College near Grand Rapids, MI, already came out with a statement that says full speed ahead on equity and diversity! —Nothing has changed.

How are you going to enforce that—you’re not. Marxists are going to do what Marxists do—They don’t care about any “Nazi” law or Nazi Supreme Court decision—They are going to do what they do. Anything a conservative does is “Nazi” to them—so they will just jettison it!

And for “conservatives” that applaud this—The joke is on you—You are NOT conservative! All the Ivy League schools should ONLY have Anglo-Saxon students! In case anyone hasn't noticed, the problem is that all institutions, from charitable organizations and schools to government and churches, have been infiltrated and overtaken by those opposed to quality, sense and competence in the culture of the USA.

Reading Clarence Thomas' gleeful opinion on the matter reveals what a seriously disturbed little man he is, though I suspect he may yet prove his utility to the republic if he is still around when the first state reparations law comes before the court. Not completely wrong. Affirmative Action (AA), like all these other “woke” policies is akin to bullying. Like the school yard bully, people generally get fed up with the harassment and react. This is something the DEI pushers never seem to comprehend, they never grasp that there will always be a backlash when folks get fed up.

In reality though, dumping AA makes no difference. Cries of racism will still echo through the halls of academia and the Dean’s office when some stupid black man is rejected from admittance.

In spite of that, Universities are no longer centres of learning, they are businesses ! Professors do not care who is admitted to the place or who if anyone attends lectures. Everyone, including the dopers, sex fiends, and boozers get their fancy piece of wallpaper festooned with ribbons regardless.

As such, Asian, black, White, East Indian or whatever get to graduate. They pay their fees and they get their diploma. The majority of graduates are as dumb as a shoe sole and are immediately hired by previous graduates in top positions but also just as dumb. Hence we get a band of brothers who are all idiots.

This decision isn't enough.

All the civil rights legislation that made discrimination against white people law needs to be abolished. In truth, the entire set of laws needs a makeover to eliminate absolutely ever reference to people that can be construed as a reference to a subset of the people.

Laws should only reference the general category of 'person' and not what type of person to make the law blind to ethnicity, and every other characteristic. Also, the idiocy of conferring personhood on to corporations has to be completely eliminated and corporations need to be restricted from spending on anything but that which directly affects their product or service. They should be prohibited from all social spending, lobbying, and push advertising should be banned. Every corp has a web site and its there that they should advertise their offerings, not constantly pushing their products through the various social media companies platforms that harvest user data precisely for selling that information to advertisers.

Google, Meta, etc need to have their source of advertising income cut to nothing. Let them charge a fair price for service to consumers and that would change how they view the world.

Whitey has been complaining about affirmative action for decades and nothing was done. It took gooks complaining to finally attempt to end this farce. “It ain’t over until it’s over” though. Nigra and others can’t accept equality for all and special treatment for none.

Whitey would use the NBA as an example to no avail. The nigra only accepts the premise of the most qualified person being awarded the job if it favors him. Fact: The gooks particularly the Nips are more intelligent than PRESENT day Whites, at least scholastically thanks to our public skoo system being ruined by violence, drugs, alcohol, teachers who are not qualified, teachers more concerned about having sex with students instead of teaching them, (((indoctrination and Hollywood))) etc., etc... Look at the Chink who navigated the Rubik’s Cube in 3 seconds. Do you think the average spic or nigra could complete the Rubik’s Cube in 30 minutes.

I recall seeing some school work, test, or homework assignment for an 8th grade student from the 1930’s or 1940’s a few years back. Guaranteed affirmative action “collage” grads like Michelle Obama would fail.

And women? No woman should be a fireman or police officer patrolling the streets. They physically are not built for that type of work. Women prison guards in male prisons? Give me a break. Many women of all colors have been awarded jobs through affirmative action as well. As a cop would you want a 5’6” 120-130 female partner when the SHTF?

The universities are scheming to get around the ruling by vague subterfuge, and this has been stated clearly in the media. I personally doubt that these now-illegal schemes will work to any substantial degree. Everyone agrees openly that the universities will try to flout the ruling, but it only takes one snitch in the admissions department and such subterfuge can be rooted out.

Let us hope the ruling does not do collateral damage by inducing universities to limit the use of objective standards such as class rank and test scores.

The importance of maintaining a diverse, highly qualified officer corps has been beyond legitimate dispute for decades. History has shown that placing a diverse armed forces under the command of homogenous leadership is a recipe for internal resentment, discord and violence. By contrast, units that are diverse across all levels are more cohesive, collaborative and effective.

(From a 'friend of the court' filing by a variety of military generals, supporting Harvard et al)

What this will mean for the military is more high ranking blacks, women, homosexuals, and the rest of the gaggle, but fewer straight white male officers.

One can argue that the effects of AA in the military contradict the generals' statement—i.e., Affirmative Action is a benefit beyond 'legitimate dispute', has been a demonstrated positive 'for decades', and that AA leads to a more effective fighting force, etc. But no one really ever believed that. It's simply 'what they have to say' in order to keep the job.

However the upshot to more blacks, women, homosexual and tranny officers, is that the military will continue its downward spiral of effectiveness, becoming less useful as tool for the Empire to wield its might.

So, at the end of the day, continued military school AA is a win-win for everyone, as the US implodes like a half-baked homemade submersible exploring the ocean depths.

Ron Unz: “The Fall of Affirmative Action?”

That’s an important question mark.

There are enough weasel words in this Court opinion that it probably won’t change anything. Race can still be used as a factor to grant admission if it’s “... tied to that student’s courage and determination. ” [Emphasis in original, p. 48.]

In practice, it’s an enormous loophole. All it would mean is that any non-white applicant to a college or university now needs to claim that being non-white made them more courageous and determined. Such claims will no doubt be accepted without question, given the masochistic white mindset that allowed Affirmative Action not only to come into existence, but persist for 50 years. Changing that mindset is what needs to be done, not some technical adjustment to the rules. Whites will continue to be as discriminated against as much as they allow themselves to be. Frankly, they seem to like it.

Supreme Kangaroo Court of the United States (SKCOTUS) probably was willing to strike down AA in university admissions because the suit was brought by Asians. If it was brought by whites SCOTUS likely would have upheld “narrowly tailored” affirmative action policies with mealy mouthed rationale.

As others are saying and have said it’s only a matter of time before the Ivy League and other universities figure out a way around this and will change their admission policies so that unqualified and underqualified blacks and Latinos can get admitted.

The Ivy League and all other major universities were built by white men so those institutions should primarily serve the progeny of the race that created them. Not Jews, blacks, Latinos, Indians and Asians or everyone EXCEPT white men and women.

I don’t think China or Japan would allow high performing whites to immigrate in large numbers and grant them a disproportionate number of slots at their universities.

Hanania's analysis linked by FKA Max above discusses the essay loophole.

<https://www.richardhanania.com/p/why-sffa-v-harvard-matters>

People have talked about the “loophole” that was left in by the Court, which said that you can still write an essay about how your race has influenced your life or made you the person that you are. This isn't really a loophole though. There's no way that the Court can say you can never mention race in any context, because as long as there are essays the topic may come up. Although I fully expect universities to try to get around this decision when they can, I'm still optimistic about the effects it is going to have on institutions.

Roberts foresaw the potential for shenanigans here, and so he explicitly warned universities on this point.

But, despite the dissent's assertion to the contrary, universities may not simply establish through application essays or other means the regime we hold unlawful today. (A dissenting opinion is generally not the best source of legal advice on how to comply with the majority opinion.) “[W]hat cannot be done directly cannot be done indirectly. The Constitution deals with substance, not shadows,” and the prohibition against racial discrimination is “levelled at the thing, not the name.”

We shall see how it plays out in reality.

I guarantee that nothing much will change. There will be no enforcement. Some colleges have already announced they will continue with the diversity quest, in some form. Don't think for a minute that our colleges/universities are going to let go all of their diversity officers, liberal women and minorities in admissions offices, minority liaison offices, or any of the other positions that are all about admitting lesser qualified blacks, hispanics, and women.

Best case scenario is that when these schools continue to discriminate against smart whites and Asians, that those groups will have good evidence and initiate a lot of lawsuits.

Also, the idiocy of conferring personhood on to corporations has to be completely eliminated and corporations need to be restricted from spending on anything but that which directly affects their product or service. They should be prohibited from all social spending, lobbying, and push advertising should be banned.

I very much agree. As you may remember, I have numerous times stated the stupidity of the SCOTUS in their 1976 ruling in Buckley v. Valeo that campaign contributions were free speech. The appellants had argued that the FECA's limitations on the use of money for political purposes were in violation of First Amendment protections for free expression since no significant political expression could be made without the expenditure of money. The Court concurred in part with the appellants' claim, finding that the restrictions on political contributions and expenditures "necessarily reduce[d] the quantity of expression by restricting the number of issues discussed, the depth of the exploration, and the size of the audience reached. This is because virtually every means of communicating ideas in today's mass society requires the expenditure of money." The Court then determined that such restrictions on political speech could only be justified by an overriding governmental interest.

The idiocy in what the court did was giving standing to a corporation at all. Only people can go to prison so extending people rights to a corporation that can't be incarcerated makes absolutely no sense since there's no possibility of sanctioning a corporation equal in all aspects to sanctioning a person.

The entire concept of corporations being State constructs should be abolished. Laws should completely ignore the concept of a corporation and never mention them.

Corporations should be private matters between people that decide to band together to pursue some product or service. The only reason the State recognized corporations as an entity was to declare a new source of taxation that could take from the corp what the corp would undoubtedly pass on to their customers so as to hide the true extent of the theft the State initiates against the citizenry. The average person is too stupid to recognize that no corp ever actually pays any tax since they just pass that expense along as part of their purchase price for their product or service. The State is simply using corporate taxation as a mechanism to hide the true amount of money the citizenry actually pays to the State.

This desire to pick the citizen's pocket via a devious means has now morphed into corporations writing laws, bribing legislators known euphemistically as campaign contributions and empowering corporations to mistreat the population like Nigel Farage is being mistreated now by the UK banks. Instead of corporations accountable to their customers, they are now extensions of State power with their full cooperation.

As Ortega said almost 80 years ago, “Culture is what saves life from being a mere disaster. It is something that enables man to live a life which is something above human tragedy and inward disgrace.”

In the previous comment I wrote about, not above. Just wanted to correct that.

And speaking of Ortega, we are nearing the 100th anniversary of his The Revolt of The Masses, which is still highly relevant and well worth reading. The subject of the book, of course, is European Barbarism. So I am well aware that there is such a thing.

I say that because, though my previous comment focused on Asiatic Barbarism, I certainly had no intention of ignoring the Western variety. But, unfortunately, I was unable to edit my comment as it went straight to the comment section.

In any event, we might as well talk about Global Barbarism. And the point of using that phrase would not be to name call. It would be to diagnose. We are living in a Hi-Tech Dark Ages marked by barbarism. From the point of view of human adaptation, that seems to be something very much worth directing attention to.

It appears to me that your vaunted analysis misses the elephant in the room, namely that affirmative action has destroyed public education in urban America. As a side effect, it has also destroyed white neighborhoods as parents send their kids to private/charter schools to avoid integrated neighborhood schools, so kids on the same block don't know each other.

By any measure, student performance in the nation's urban schools is low. In urban schools that enroll high proportions of poor students, performance is appallingly low.

Negroes: not the only minority any more.

Asians: the successful minority

or best of all:

Merit: the sole basis for admissions and advancement.

Years ago at the public college I attended, there was an article in the local paper the day after graduation. Some blacks were sobbing that, unlike the Engineering, Science and Mathematics majors, they just didn't feel the pride of accomplishment at graduation! The former were singing, throwing their caps in the air, waving their diplomas (AND JOB OFFERS) in the air. The blacks sat on their fat asses and wiped their butts with their diplomas, which is what they were worth.

The news paper pointed out in Black Ink (BLACK INK MATTERS!!!!) that they had no sense of accomplishment because they HADN'T accomplished anything.

Yes,

I haven't been reading any of the details because I'm nursing some bad dental pain but, if I understand correctly, it's now allowable to use "national security" as a justification for affirmative action, which is in many ways equivalent to the oft trotted out "compelling state interest" argument used in the very recent past and I expect to see the "compelling state interest" argument returning to courtrooms soon. If not that, the scope of what counts as "national security" will be expanded to infinity.

Affirmative action is like cancer. If it isn't fully eradicated it will return stronger and any serious attempt to eradicate it would involve serious measures such annulling the civil rights, getting rid of universal suffrage (perhaps limiting the vote to net tax contributors), and reforming immigration.

I've been saying that ever since the creation and inception of "feminism".

Women who claim that they "can do anything a man can do" are finally getting their comeuppance with the recent mentally ill male "swimmer" placing "first" in competition with "real" women. Wait till more women start getting pushed out of deserved positions by being forced to compete with mentally ill biological males that claim that they are women.

If women are smart, they will refuse to compete in such situations. The power of the boycott is effective, especially in collegiate and professional sports. When "real" biological women refuse to compete with biological males, things will change, no matter how the mainstream media tries to "spin" it.

Women need to understand that being feminine is not in any way inferior but is complementary to males.

Men and women ARE different.

There is no getting around biology.

Ever since the 1970s, “race” HAS been used as a “qualifier”, especially with “affirmative action”, “quotas”, “set-asides”, and other Constitutionally offensive practices which does disenfranchise White males in the job market.

More than once, I was discreetly informed by hiring managers that although I was eminently qualified, I would not be hired because next in line for hiring had to be a “person of color” (read “black”).

Keep in mind that large corporations can easily afford “dead weight” in which to fulfill their “civil-rights (for some)” hiring mandates and to maintain their acceptable racial “quotas”.

Quite often, this “dead weight” is promoted into management positions where they can plan their weekends, do their nails, or in the case of black men, preen themselves and brag about how “great” they are having such positions despite being totally unqualified.

Underlings who report to these “managers” are mostly White and Asians—those who do the “real” work”.

One such blatant case comes to mind—a black Detroit Public School administrator who could neither read nor write, completely depending on his underlings to get his job done.

Your statement:

...is spot on.

Thank you...

I've been criticizing corporate control of government by "shouting the message from the rooftop" for many decades now.

In fact, corporations write the legislation and then submit it to our legislators in their entirety (along with envelopes of cash) where they get enacted into law.

A major mistake (which could be corrected) was to confer "personhood" on corporations. Giving corporations such "legal status" actually elevates them above that of ordinary voters as they have the cash to get what they want.

A middle ground would require corporations to abide by ALL Constitutional principles as a condition of being awarded their corporate charter. This one move would flush out much of the "deep money" as well as reducing corporate influence on our legislators.

Best regards,

The AA was opined by SCOTUS as “correct, valid and applicable” in the 60s. Now it was declared as “none of the above”. How is that possible? SCOTUS is the Law, an Unerring Supreme Sovereign, the last resort to fall back onto when all the deplorable, perpetually erring fallables beg in desperation for justice. So the people are told. An unshakeable foundation of “Our Democracy”. If there was ever a more obvious oxymoron. None of those blessings are actually however in the “we the people Constitution”. And that should make you, the people, pause and reflect a bit.

First, it clearly shows that the SCOTUS does not represent the Law, but rather “as the wind blows” ideology of a handful of pretentious Lords, Spooks, and Black Inquisition Darth Vaders hand-groomed for the job by their plenipotents.

Second, in the Republic (the Rex-Publica in Latin, or the Commonwealth of the people in any other language) it is the people who make the Law as they see fit, for their own convenience, and at the local level, thereby making any central edifice, like the SCOTUS, a redundant fringe, at best, and a gilded cover for a system of megalomaniacs masquerading as Justice, at its worst.

Meh. Very little will change. Colleges have always had wide latitude in what they consider for admissions. It's never been just a question of test scores, although they are quickly getting rid of test scores as part of an application. Harvard can just use other proxies for race: family wealth (even blacks with good incomes mostly don't save much), zip code, family history ("are you the first person in your family to apply to Harvard?") There's a million ways to skin the black cat.

My guess is that short term, they will up the number of Asians to look good, while making sure they are getting the most LGBTQ and politically Progressive Asians they can find. And that number is limitless.

Who will suffer? Mostly whites. Actual whites. There's still some small percentage of non-Jewish whites that can be cut in favor of Asians. The remaining whites will be almost entirely LGBTQ or committed Progressive fanatics. Whatever the secret Jewish number is, that won't change in the least. You might see a token drop of a percent or two for blacks, but that won't last beyond one or two class admissions.

The only fun here is the excessive shrieking of Progressive dolts, but in the end they never, ever lose. And when the House flips back to Dem in the next election (100% guaranteed) and Gavin Newsom becomes President (also guaranteed), they'll be ready to unleash some kind of court packing scheme and that will be that.

Your middle ground still doesn't address what the law does with them after they violate some constitutional principle or law. The State loves to fine corps that then raise prices for the rest of us and doesn't actually solve anything since the corp just make the fines a cost of doing business.

I prefer the State not recognise a corps existence and look clean through it to the actual people involved to jail their asses and bankrupt them instead. Corporations operate on the plausible denial concept that never makes any individual accountable for what's done in the corps name. That's why some low level guy is willing to open a valve to dump some toxic waste into a river after his boss gave the order. Once that low level guy understands that he and his boss are both going to jail will cause them both to tell their upper management to pound sand and change the culture inside an organization as everyone polices their own activities and refuses orders leading to prison.

The entire reason for corporations as chartered institutions was for the tax scam. Later, they also went for the fine scam, both of which solve nothing but do increase prices and offer the opportunity for bribing the responsible 'authorities' using corp funds that are orders of magnitude larger than what an individual has access to.

It's like marriage being a State sanctioned activity. All it does is provide more control over the individual. The State has no business in marriage, corporations, or anything else beside a 'person' for law purposes. Once the State invents some new area of responsibility all that does is increase costs and reduce liberty. Ask any divorce attorney how they love the fact that divorce is a State invented situation with no upside for the people involved.

I'm with Pat Buchanan on sneaky Harvard Jews rigging the university admissions scam — I am in a blood boiling rage that Harvard Jews were actively engaged in screwing over WHITE CATHOLICS and WHITE PROTESTANTS — Asians of any kind are not of interest to me, and to be honest, most of the Asians should have their citizenship revoked and they should be removed from the USA. Radical? It will be oatmeal bland White Core American policy to revoke citizenship and deport foreigners and their spawn when the asset bubbles implode and the White Christians begin advancing the interests of Whites as Whites in the USA.

The university and college endowments have made a damn killing on financialization, globalization, mass immigration and the asset bubbles created by the plutocrat-controlled goons at the globalized central banks.

The weak fops in the GOP took a little nibble from the big piles of endowment loot that universities and colleges have sneakily attained thanks to the monetary extremism of the Federal Reserve Bank, but a nibble ain't enough. It's astounding.

The last thing these lib dems want is a merit based system. Then they claim that diversity is our greatest strength.

They're actually SAYING blacks can't compete on a level playing field.

They're screaming it! <https://t.co/S3Xq5ZtYEY>

— Anthony Cumia (@AnthonyCumia) June 30, 2023

So, we have pro-AA saying the SC decision is 'racist', but we also have anti-AA people who say AA was 'racist' against whites(and Asians).

But I see it as race-ist either way.

By this time, no honest person can say AA is remedial especially as the main beneficiaries are often the children of affluent blacks. Many of these are recent black African immigrants who can't blame 'muh slavery'. If AA were truly remedial in regards to US history, it should be limited to black-Americans of slave descent. Also, it shouldn't be offered to WHITE Hispanics with their own history of conquest and imperialism over the New World. They arrived in the New World long before the Anglos, and if they became subservient to the Yanquis, they have no one to blame but themselves.

Both pro-AA and anti-AA is based on race-ism even though both sides accuse the other of being 'racist'.

Pro-AA implies blacks can't cut it on merit and need preferential treatment.

Anti-AA, in implying that whites and Asians will do better in schools than blacks, argues for racial realities and differences. Anti-AA may be 'anti-racist' in calling for equal opportunity for all groups regardless of race but the acknowledgement that certain groups will do better than other groups under the rule of 'may the best man win' is indeed race-ist in noticing that racial differences are real and will impact society in profound ways.

Now, some argue that the pro-AA people are motivated by sympathy for blacks as intellectual inferiors. They feel sorry for blacks and want to lend a helping hand. There is kernel of truth to this, the Christian heritage of charitability and compassion. But is Americanism really about favoring losers over winners? If so, why such deafening silence about the Palestinians, who have far less than the Jews in every area?

Me thinks the real reason for pro-AA is the conviction that blacks are superior in body and soul, thus the true winners.

Sure, they may lag in math skills and exam scores that test for IQ, but they have something more precious than mere intelligence/intellect and analytical skills, so says Woke America. Blacks have superior souls & bodies as the top winners of pop music, sports, and sexual idolatry. This means blacks are 'iconic' as the true champs of the West, and that is the real reason for this obsession to have MORE BLACKS in high places.

The notion that blacks are superior in soul and body is also race-ist, predicated on awareness of racial differences, i.e. "blacks deserve more than they merit on test scores because they're superior in the 'cool' stuff."

It's race-ist all around, but we have the pitiful spectacle of everyone accusing the other of being 'racist'.

Maybe the solution is the 'badass cool action'. Every college has to admit certain amount of blacks because 'dey be cool and shit'. At least, such a policy would be more honest.

That WOMEN gain the most from affirmative action, not just in colleges but in everywhere! This can all be traced to Title VII in 1964 civil rights act (and in turn to soviet communism). Women are in huge college and jobs admissions benefiting from affirmative action unnaturally far more than racial minorities ever could.

This is always true. The biggest beneficiaries of AA are always the wives and daughters of the wealthiest, most powerful men.

Never the 214 IQ men from modest backgrounds :

Today's stupid WSJ editorial triumphantly quotes the opinion language wagging its finger saying you have to show that a particular black applicant had to sweat really hard not just that black applicants in general had to sweat really hard, so aha, we gotcha. Well duh, all you need is an essay saying that I personally had to sweat.

Nothing will change. The current situation is “nonredressable” in scotus parlance. So they shouldn't have taken the case to begin with. Now that they have purported to be able to redress the injury, all they are doing is humiliating themselves. The three conservative justices should have joined with the dissenters and said look, we can't redress this, so let's leave things exactly where they are: Direct AA, not sneaky AA. This way, Harvard can still use standardized tests, which will vastly improve the admissions process for non-AA students.

Btw, in today's case, on student loan forgiveness, Amy's concurrence is fantastic where she writes about the babysitter taking the kids on an overnight binge, read that part if you get a chance. It makes complicated constitutional law on the central issue understandable even to me, so that now I could explain it to my liberal friends if I had any liberal friends.

Given that the admissions employees are often uneducated, maybe white students could write about their working class parents or grandparents in order to appear simpatico.

I don't consider myself a 'race realist' like many here, as I do believe that blacks have been exploited for the financial gain of the few, but AA was always a misdirection, stealing from middle- and lower caste whites, for the nominal benefit of minorities, but really a multifaceted con for the benefit of the ruling classes. The fact that some upper middle class or elite man takes a hit is just proof of the effectiveness of the weapon, and is probably a symptom of some score settling, or heisty activity. Whoever that douche bag was who owned the LA Clippers and lost out due to his 'racism' is just one high profile example. Nowadays I wouldn't have a problem with any white kid writing a college essay about the obstacles he faced as a queer black woman, and watch the admissions' apparatchiks heads explode when he shows up for the on campus interview. 'Fuck you' if they can't relate to his lived experience as a black lesbian, should be his strident response, followed by a law suit.

As for the university there is a short, ignoble history of duplicity and practiced narcissism and nihilism by former out groups who now want to shit on everything that produced the great thought and works they know that they are incapable of. On that shit stain Avital Ronnell, or however you spell it.

The quality of teaching in the department unraveled. The carefully planned program of teaching German literature was ignored. Many students arrived in the department with minimal knowledge of German literature or history. The courses that were meant to correct this no longer existed. Now philosophy, from Hegel to Judith Butler, was taught. But multidisciplinary quickly deteriorated into dilettantism. Students were encouraged to take philosophy seminars at other universities. Soon, students who had learned about deconstruction and feminism in Paris, but who had no idea who Gottfried Benn, Joseph Roth and Alfred Döblin were, were no exception in the department. As one student told me, “We study in a German department where French theory is taught in English.”

The decision is very strong and detailed, pointing out that any race-based methodology must meet the strict scrutiny test under the Equal Protection clause, which means be very narrowly drawn, limited in time and capable of evaluation by a court...all of which were missing at Harvard and UNC...It's probably Roberts' finest hour...To make a simple point, if Brown v. Board of Education was right, then what these Universities were doing is completely unConstitutional and very wrong....And end runs around the ruling are not going to work, because any blanket favoritism or antagonism is strictly verboten under Equal Protection, so each applicant has to be considered on his own merits..

I'm judging all this based on my experience litigating Constitutional issues in the Supreme Court with success, and observing how they go about making such decisions....

Public or private. You have money, you can pay the most expensive university, but first take the test. I'm a lawyer, because I got the necessary Score to enter there. | The courts were never meant to be our rulers

That depends on what you mean by “meant”; I take it you are trying to get a handle on the intent of the people who set up the institutional infrastructure of the Federal government.

Even then, it depends which subset of those people are being considered” the ‘1776’ crowd, or the ‘1789’ crowd.

Think, in particular, of the subset of the latter that conducted a coup d'état – by turning a convention to amend the Articles of Confederation, into the birthplace of a completely new document, with a great deal of the drafting of the document taking place in secretive closed sessions.

Key participants – the Hamilton clique – expressly intended the Constitution to be the foundation of a completely different form of government to that enshrined in the Articles of Confederation.

The authors of the Declaration of Independence might not have intended “the courts ... to be our rulers”, but Hamilton – leader of the 1789 coup – certainly intended a highly-centralised, powerful Leviathan.

As history shows: Leviathan always has a cadre of pseudo-intelligentsia whose job is to parse justifications of the brain-farts of the ruling class... the BlackRobes; the Curia.

Hamilton was basically the ur-Neocon. He would be thrilled at the prospect that a bunch of government-selected ‘safe hands’ who could be trusted not to rock the boat.

- ◆ Korematsu has not been formally overturned.
- ◆ Buck v Bell has not been formally overturned.
- ◆ South v Maryland has not been formally overturned.

And of course, Marbury v Madison – the root of the source of ‘judicial review’ – started as an attempt to ‘stack’ US courts by the outgoing (Hamiltonian) Adams... and it should be no surprise that the Chief Wizard of the BlackRobes – Marshall – was Adam’s SecState.

Ask yourself why s13 of the Judiciary Act was framed the way it was – expanding the power of the court beyond its foundational limits. Look no further than Hamilton wanting a strong Supreme Court (he had shown this tendency when he litigated Rutgers [1784]).

The circumlocutive bullshit is stupendous: to ‘fix’ the problem that s13 gave the BlackRobes appellate jurisdiction that went beyond ArtIII of the Constitution, Marshall invented ex nihilo a new power for the *BlackRobes – thus extending the BlackRobes’ bag of magic tricks beyond ArtIII.

To do so, he made reference to Hamilton’s “Federalist #78” – one of Hamilton’s typically-self-serving brain-farts.

The current US system is proceeding as designed – by Hamilton.

That’s why he was so keen to get the “Elastic Clause” included in the Constitution: it would give his Leviathan the power to pass anything they liked, on the basis that it was ‘necessary and proper’ to give effect to some valid Constitutional power.

And he always intended that his empowered BlackRobes would have the ability to declare such laws to pass muster.

Asian representation at the Ivies is the very tip of the tip of the iceberg as far as the damage that AA does.

Agree completely: in fact I would go further – in key employment opportunities, a white man with an Ivy credential in a relevant field will continue to be passed over by obese white Karens in HR – who are fully on-board with the whole “AA” shibboleth.

The reason HR-retards fully support bullshit, is that it is their entire raison d'être: their entire industry is based on the idea that some 95IQ chick is the correct person to evaluate job applicants for jobs that she herself does not have the cognitive wherewithal to perform. This is especially true in ‘prestige’ occupations, and also in the bureaucracy.

Once that justification for the cancer of HR-retards is properly undermined, every set of job applications could be done by a bot: given M available positions, sort applicants by weighted GPA (with weights according to institutional ranking and field relevance)... and pick the $N > M$ top applicants for interview.

Think of all the fuckwits in HR that you’ve encountered; those people are a very specific drain on the entire economy. And of course they were absolutely all-in on mask mandates; lockdowns; and jabs.

It doesn't at all. Asians will be let in in greater numbers, while the quotas for blacks and hispanics will largely be unchanged as universities either ignore the ruling or find new ways around it (outlined by Jackson's dissent). Jews will still run the elite campuses.

The new increase in Asian enrollment will come at expense of the non-jewish White applicants, who will be squeezed from above and below. So we'll have more Asians, the same proportion of blacks, hispanics, and jews, and fewer Whites. But there won't be a lawsuit for them.

Forget about ever doing the right thing and wait until we gather 50+ years of data to tell us that Affirmative Action was, is and always will be inane and unjust.

Now... let's ignore all the data of social destruction from Affirmative Action from the past 50+ years in some sort of dismissed blameless sociological theory that never has to account for anything.

The founders fully intended that the Supreme Court would rule over the elected legislature and executive administrative parts in government. The question was decided in 1804 Marburg vs Madison ; judicial supremacy.less than ten years after the constitution was ratified.

Every one of the founders and first Congress critters were ardent devotees of a French aristocrat, lawyer judge and legal scholar. Montesquieu. Like the founding fathers, Montesquieu was a Platonist. Like Plato they all believed there was a natural aristocracy that would rise to rule.

Only two presidents ever defied a Supreme Court ruling. Andrew Jackson during the Indian wars expulsion of Cherokees west of the Mississippi. That was inconsequential. Because the recalcitrant Indians ceased raiding farms and retreated into the mountains.

Abraham Lincoln suspended habeas corpus at the beginning of the civil war. And held about 40,000 northern state journalists politicians and others opposed to the civil war in county jails for 4 years. Despite a Supreme Court ruling and order that the prisoners be released and habeas corpus reinstated.

Judicial supremacy was intended from the first.

How useful it is to grouse about Asian students dominating Harvard and the Ivies? It's short-sighted, I think, and misses the bigger picture. The victory is a battle won, not the war, and should be used to open new fronts in the ongoing war.

SCOTUS is winning fights conservatives could not. It gifted the overturning of Roe v Wade, and now affirmative action. But it can't be expected to win the moral war by itself, and take up every front and every skirmish.

The clash continues, for example, ending birthright citizenship, building the wall and closing the border, limiting immigration and replacing permanent residency with temporary work visa programs, and cleaning up elections.

The end of affirmative action will not stop universities from finding other ways to cheat, but it gives conservatives the legal and moral high ground. It's a lever in the pursuit of transparency and fairness in all areas of American life. It's a crucial victory, and a good thing.

And all good things should help people most mistreated by bad things coming from the left, including poor Appalachian kids and lower income Americans, black, and in particular white.

From your “OK you have a point”, I see little to nothing of relevance to my post.

Which other country in the post-WWII era comes even close to the atrocities/regime changes we have committed against Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, North Korea, Iraq, Panama, Honduras, Haiti, Afghanistan, Syria and Libya? Not to mention the kangaroo justice meted out to detainees of an enclave of Cuba that America still occupies. We need to know this so that America can be judged fairly.

So, particularly in the U.S. the situation is that many of its richest citizens are not necessarily the creme de la creme when it comes to intelligence, integrity, humility, modesty, scruples, etc. The current American elite lacks noblesse oblige, above all else.

The Ivies (yes, I'm a grad) used to be where upper-class boys were both educated and "finished" for a lifetime of noblesse oblige. Finishing them was most important. At Harvard, whatever they learned in the classroom, which often wasn't much, paled before what they learned from each other. The parchment was as expected as their future jobs were assured.

Too much competition/mobility is not good for innovation and quality control. A certain degree of exclusivity/privilege provides a creative/political “safe space” and allows one to think long-term, instead of only thinking in short-term strategies on how to out-compete one’s rivals, etc., which then leads to higher quality products and outcomes.

The innovations that are hatched in these exclusive, “immobile” spaces, i.e., universities, class systems, etc. then benefit the entire society.

It is “trickle-down” science instead of “trickle-down” economics.

Of course, this requires a certain noblesse oblige attitude from the elites, which I believe is still more prevalent in the British elite than in the U.S. elite.

Interesting, and he may be right.

However, I don't buy the Boston/net worth argument.

Boston is an old immigrant city with very strong ethnic-identity neighborhoods and conflicts. Many of those are Catholic (Irish in Southie, Polish in West End, Italians in North End, blacks in Roxbury). Then there is Chinatown. Large Portuguese community. These are the old social/ethnic building blocks of Boston. Read Malcolm X on Boston.

It is absurd to think that a national racial policy could change the fundamental characteristics of neighborhoods, loyalties, wealth building, integrated neighborhoods etc. in a city like Boston.

Liberals tried for decades to impose integration policies on Boston—especially in the schools—and it was a gigantic shit show.

So, Shiva might be right that the Kennedys are racists, but the financial condition of blacks in Boston simply does not work as a proof of concept.

For contrast, the correct way is to have courts with no power of enforcement at all. In this case you follow their advice because it's good advice.

Devolve enforcement to the individual. Any man can kill any other man for any reason, provided he's given a chance to shoot back. Result: any dispute that's not worth being shot at over, you take to the courts. Even an unfavourable decision is less costly than being shot at.

Bonus: this system cannot develop a prison-industrial complex, due to the very large fraction of men who will start shooting rather than submit to prison. There's simply no point in such courts or such Judges attempting to hand down cruel and unusual punishments.

Legislative or Justinian law is absolutely haram.

P.S. The purpose of the alleged "justice" system is to humiliate. It isn't intended to suppress crime, which is good, because Machiavelli was right. If you do small harm all it does is encourage the criminal to try to get back at you. Humiliation causes stress, which causes acting out.

I believe, based on acquaintances with some graduates of Harvard and the Point, in some cases graduates of both institutions, that the prestige has already collapsed. The beneficiaries of these elite Diplomas are the not too bright.

As for the kikes, hindus and orientals I am amused that these people (who lose no chance to point out how old their civilizations are, how smart their race is) want to attend a white University. You would think that after 4000 years of civilisation they would have the best Universities in the world. Of course Fong Dong or Ramnaraine Gopaul Singh can parade through their villages with their Ivy League certificate stapled to their head and it is a proud moment for everyone there. Little does the cheering mob of rural villagers know that their education is substandard and they are as dumb as ever.

As for Blacks, they get accepted for Law or Accounting but soon find the going tough. And so....they switch to African studies. These are only so many jobs for experts in Bantu spear making or the culinary delights of the cannibal Baluba. LOL.

We can look to South Africa as an example of elite educational institutions gone to hell. With the influx of East Indians and Blacks, a SA University degree is worth shit. Students demand a pass mark of 30% and free everything and when refused they torch the place.

Talking to University graduates these days is like pulling fingernails with red hot pliers. There is nothing topside. A University Education used to mean something but these days is worthless !

One year I was up for a promotion and when it didn't come I demanded to know why since I was hearing rumors of a new policy whereby an upper limit on whites males getting promoted was set. By the time my promotion was due that limit had been met so no more white guys were eligible for promotion. My manager sheepishly admitted this to me and I was blown away.

Prior to that while I had always opposed anti-white affirmative action I felt that only a very small number of whites were affected and it always happened to someone else. But then it happened to a female cousin trying to get admitted to medical school and a few years later to me, so suddenly it became very personal for me.

And it's 100% true that large corporations can afford to absorb some of the "dead weight" of lesser qualified affirmative action hires. They usually get light workloads and even struggle with that. To give them the normal workload of a white guy would be "discrimination".

Because competition in their home countries is so tough that that those who fail to make it to their own universities, but whose parents can afford it, invariably send their kids to your “white universities”.

It is a well known phenomenon in East and Southeast Asia.

The standard advice a parent would give their child, if he is bright, is “Do you basic degree locally first. Then nobody will think that you went abroad because you could not make it here. For your post grad degrees, you can go anywhere you like”.

I used to drive a high end BMW but sold it as it attracted too many family and “friends” who had problems only a loan from me could fix. I now drive a used Toyota Corolla (and plead poverty) for which I paid 1/10 of the price I shelled out for the BM. It is just as reliable, drives just as nice but the problem is that no one pays me any attention when I rock the street. LMAO.

And the moral of this story is this. A shit degree from Harvard or Yale is worth more than a high end University degree from the most prestigious Asian University. That is, a Harvard Graduate with a 30% grade is a highly employable “genius” and a graduate from an expensive Asian University with a 100% grade is a complete idiot. It is unfair but the perception translates into reality or is it the other way around ?? The African tribesman running around in the Congo has heard about Harvard and Yale but who knows anything about Peking University.

To your point the less able Asian students whose parents can afford it send them to Western Universities. I can understand that. I went to elite very expensive private schools but in fact was among the class dunces because while our grades were 92% average, that fact was the rest of the class was 95 and in some cases 100%. We were marked by a hard score (ie 92/100) none of the stupid B+/ AA and also by position in the class of 30 by subject and by overall score in all subjects. Grade average to remain in the school was 80%. Fall below that and you were kicked the fuck out no matter who Mommy and Daddy were !

Those scores no longer exist in the schools I attended and it is evident in the students who look like the bottom of the barrel ! Even Oxford and Cambridge is not worth a fart !

One of the disadvantages of Asian kids going to western universities is that they fall into the wrong crowd. Away from Mom and Dad to pester them they are perverted by partying, fucking and smoking weed and drinking beer. Asian parents who can afford $80K a year generally also buy a Condo and high end car for the kid. Studying becomes secondary as the kid feels unleashed from parental scrutiny, control and discipline and the University does not give a shit. Everyone graduates !

My family owns a Latin American group and send their kids to the US and Canada to study. Its a form of snobbery, fake elitism and oneupmanship. They return with the University Certificate that looks like it just fell from a Christmas tree but they are as dumb and useless as ever. Other families, more thoughtful perhaps, and with growing Chinese influence in the region send their kids to University in China. However at a party a dunderhead with an MBA from Queens University in Canada is the toast of the town, a genius from a Chinese University is a yawn !

Its unfair but the way it is. The whole education system is fucked up and it shows in the final products they graduate ! Perception rules. In my BM I was the King Snake. In my Toyota I am a yawn ! Same with Ivy League Universities and the Asian ones.

To hell with all three, which will simply ignore this opinion and carry on discriminating exactly as they have for the last 50 years, confident that no-one will actually stop them. Despite the wailing from affirmative-action baby Jackson (double-Harvard) in her dissent, Roberts (also double-Harvard) has left the discriminators a loophole they can drive supertankers full of underqualified preferred minorities through:

At the same time, as all parties agree, nothing in this opinion should be construed as prohibiting universities from considering an applicant's discussion of how race affected his or her life, be it through discrimination, inspiration, or otherwise. (majority opinion, page 39)

Roberts writes a nice essay about equal protection and the 14th Amendment, but one wonders if he really means it. He is himself a product of the exceedingly dishonest university his opinion affects to correct. I suspect the result, in percentage terms, will be that black admissions will decline only very slightly as admissions committees find ways to preserve the 'black share', hispanic admissions will decline some, as they are less politically radioactive than blacks, Asian (oriental and subcontinental) admissions will increase, and white admissions will continue to decrease – but the Jewish percentage will not decrease in proportion; if anything it may increase. So the Americans whose ancestors founded the HYP toxic trio will be just as shut out as before, if not more so.

But, Rich, that's assuming anything will even change as a result of the ruling. I don't, by far think this will be the case.

It's really funny how the ruling is being spun in the news; absolutely nothing about the collusion and blatant discrimination of the Ivies against Asians, everything about the effects on blacks.

And as Ron has shown, ultimately with or without the ruling, the net result will be that blacks will maintain their percentages, whites will give a big chunk of theirs to the Asians, and that chunk will come exclusively from the Catholic and WASP contingent but certainly not from the Jewish one (this being the case already in anticipation of this lawsuit). New boss, same as the old boss.

Against any redress from the new ruling stands the woke-BLM contention that lack of proportional representation is ipso-facto proof of discrimination.

If Trump were president during this time, Antifa and its backers would spill out in the streets again, but as things stand currently, 'we've got a proxy war to fight boys,' so blacks will not be agitated to take up arms and they'll be told to simply rewrite their application essays for Harvard focusing not just on their skin color but how that's made them react in a racist environment! Voila, problem solved!

As far as the Asians entering the Ivies are concerned, they're simply tools, lapping up all the propaganda like mother's milk. They're way too complacent to have developed a spine in the first generation to have emerged from the morass.

The Late, Great American WASP

The old U.S. ruling class had plenty of problems. But are we really better off with a country run by the self-involved, over-schooled products of modern meritocracy?

Dec. 23, 2013

<https://www.wsj.com/articles/the-late-great-american-wasp-1387586625> or <https://archive.is/Fva9O>

Meritocracy in America starts (and often ends) in what are thought to be the best colleges and universities. On the meritocratic climb, one's mettle is first tested by getting into these institutions—no easy task in the contemporary overcrowded scramble for admission. Then, of course, one must do well within them. In England, it was once said that Waterloo and the empire were built on the playing fields of Eton. The current American imperium appears to have been built at the offices of the Educational Testing Service, which administers the SATs.

Having been a good student, no matter how good the reputation of the school—and most of the good schools, we are coming to learn, are good chiefly in reputation—is no indication of one's quality or promise as a leader. A good student might even be more than a bit of a follower, a conformist, standing ready to give satisfaction to the powers that be so that one can proceed to the next good school, taking another step up the ladder of meritocracy.

What our new meritocrats have failed to evince—and what the older WASP generation prided itself on—is character and the ability to put the well-being of the nation before their own. Character embodied in honorable action is at the heart of the novels and stories of Louis Auchincloss, America's last unembarrassedly WASP writer. Doing the right thing, especially in the face of temptations to do otherwise, was the WASP test par excellence. Most of our meritocrats, by contrast, seem to be in business for themselves.

Unfortunately this ruling is mostly pointless.

The colleges already know how to circumvent AA laws.

They simply discriminate for other criteria that favors non-Whites.

For a school with limited slots they use in-person interviews for the final decisions. No discussion or mention of race is required. Guess the prevailing ideology of anyone making such decisions. If you are a talented White man then you better fake a wheelchair or lisp.

To eliminate AA you would have to create a completely blind system that liberals are unable to manipulate.

They dominate the colleges and will continue a subtle form of AA which is what happened in states that banned it.

Liberals are the problem. You can't legislate away their pseudo-religious beliefs when they are in control of a state system.

The way to defeat the left is to stop d-cking around and admit that race exists. Stop apologizing for being White. The weakness of the left is the biological reality of race and always has been. The "Free market 'n Christianity" crowd needs to stop lying. It's a strategy that ultimately fails.

Trump supporters like crediting him for all of this, but really, any Republican president would've done the same thing. If Mitch McConnell hadn't taken the historically unprecedented step of blocking the Merrick Garland nomination, and if Ginsburg had simply lived a few more months, Trump would've probably only appointed one Supreme Court justice instead of three, and there would be a 5-4 liberal majority right now. Wait the great teacher Death; and God adore!
What future bliss, he gives not thee to know,
But gives that hope to be thy blessing now.
Hope springs eternal in the human breast:
Man never is, but always to be blest:
The soul, uneasy and confin’d from home,
Rests and expatiates in a life to come.” –*

Let me get this straight – the same powers that want preferential admits based on race, don't want race seen by prosecutors during the review of a police report for filing. They tried that futile exercise of "race blind" filing in California, and criminal filings went up against the groups they didn't want prosecutors to see.

@Anon

And the moral of this story is this. A shit degree from Harvard or Yale is worth more than a high end University degree from the most prestigious Asian University.

Your point is valid, and I agree with you. BUT..... it only applies with the top rung of universities including the Ivy League universities, Cambridge, Oxford etc.

That however is not what is meant by the original commenter. He meant American or Western universities in general. It is one of the standard arguments that Yanks use to make themselves feel better, and he meant it that way.

But do not underestimate Asian universities, they are rising fast.

The Peking U that you mentioned, at #17 is one slot behind #16 Yale, and outranks #18 Princeton

My own U, at #8 outranks #10 UC Berkeley, #12 U Penn and #13 Cornell.

<https://www.topuniversities.com/university-rankings/world-university-rankings/2024?&page=1>

| expensive Asian University

These Asian universities we are talking about are typically state run. Their purpose is to produce students that are useful to the national economy. These universities are invariably either FREE or VERY HIGHLY SUBSIDISED.

As an example, I paid off the student loan of my 6 year degree, within the FIRST year of graduation.

One of the disadvantages of Asian kids going to western universities is that they fall into the wrong crowd. Away from Mom and Dad to pester them they are perverted by partying, fucking and smoking weed and drinking beer. Asian parents who can afford $80K a year generally also buy a Condo and high end car for the kid. Studying becomes secondary as the kid feels unleashed from parental scrutiny, control and discipline and the University does not give a shit. Everyone graduates !

Exactly. These are the kind of kids that are not disciplined enough to study for good grades. This is why their families have to resort to sending them to Western universities.

My family owns a Latin American group and send their kids to the US and Canada to study. Its a form of snobbery, fake elitism and oneupmanship.

Again, this is similar to motivations in Asia.

If a child can get into Harvard, of course the family will send him across the oceans happily. But if a child cannot what are his options? Send the child to one of the local private universities? These are universally know to be crappy and the last resort of a child who is unable to get into one of the state run schools.

So if a family can afford it, they send him to a Western U, never mind how disreputable. At least the family can show that they can afford to send him overseas.

Perception rules. In my BM I was the King Snake. In my Toyota I am a yawn !

That is because the world is populated by fools. They judge a man by the amount of money he has.

Good point.

But the thing that I wonder about is “why”? What is their motivation? How does it benefit a university to push affirmative action? Surely it is not because minorities pay more in terms of fees. Are they then only doing what their donors insist?

If so, then is Caltech’s donor/funding structure any different from the others?

@Rich

The “Yellow Peril” scare goes back to the 1848 California Gold Rush when many Chinese arrived to join fortune seekers from around the world, and in the 1860’s a second wave came to work on the western section of the Intercontinental Railroad.

The Chinese were resented as alien intruders and industrious competitors, and not much has changed in the current SAT score controversy over elite university admissions. There is a question about the SAT test-takers being an accurate representation of the Chinese population, and another question about their motivation and intense preparation creating an “earned” advantage.

My unscientific guess is that NE Asians have an overall, average genetic superiority in math and spatial abilities, but that Caucasians, including South Asians, have more individuals clustered at the top percentiles. That distribution might explain the many mathematical and scientific achievements of Europeans.

In the area of verbal abilities only a complete ignorance of history would lead one to believe that SAT exams or verbal IQ tests would somehow explain European achievements in literature, logic and philosophy, etc. The highest expressions of intelligence are imagination, originality and creativity. They are not measurable, nor comparable, but they are instantly recognized.

@Kratoklastes

Agree completely: in fact I would go further – in key employment opportunities, a white man with an Ivy credential in a relevant field will continue to be passed over by obese white Karens in HR – who are fully on-board with the whole “AA” shibboleth

I assume that is true, but I was approaching AA from below, which is something that nobody seems to have any concern about. A white man with a Harvard degree, or who is rejected by Harvard and has to settle for a very good, but lesser school, will likely still do well in life. Someone who starts at the bottom with the intent to work his way up may very well be trapped at the bottom, or make nowhere near the progress that his efforts and abilities warrant, due to AA. For some reason, that seems to concern nobody in elite circles, though the effect on whites just compounds the issue of being shut out of elite circles in our own nation.

The reason HR-retards fully support bullshit, is that it is their entire raison d'être: their entire industry is based on the idea that some 95IQ chick is the correct person to evaluate job applicants for jobs that she herself does not have the cognitive wherewithal to perform. This is especially true in 'prestige' occupations, and also in the bureaucracy

It's rarely the case that HR chicks are qualified to judge the qualifications for any job. As far as I can tell their only qualifications are to be some combination of dumb, weasly, woke, ruthless and cunning. This is a problem at all levels, especially the jobs that “any idiot could do.” It's a big reason why the U.S. is dysfunctional from top to bottom and sinking fast. Still, HR ladies are only following orders from above.

You underestimate the bureaucratic idiocy of corporate America.

What happens is that they are the first level of contact.

So they ask questions like “do you know XYZ?” without knowing what that means. Which means you have to answer the questions without highlighting their obvious lack of knowledge in your skill area. This can be really aggravating because they won't know how X overlaps Y and you are explaining it to a women's study major who hates math.... and resents White men.

At any time they can dump a candidate for some arbitrary reason. So liberal/egalitarian feels can enter the equation.

White men should avoid corporate America in general. As with the government they have gone stupid trying to pretend that biology doesn't exist. Reality denial is unhealthy and leads to poor decisions.

White men should start a business or join the trades. Forget office work unless you are highly specialized and can walk at a moment's notice.

Addition: So the HR lady with the women's studies bachelor degree and masters in drinking games and cock sampling gathers the pool of candidates for the manager.

She checks your references and asks nosey questions like why you didn't work for a summer. God forbid you actually not work for 2 months of your life.

You have to sit there and smile and hope her liberal resentment feels don't come into play.

One thing you can do is trap her into thinking that you vote for the Democrats. Let her ask a question and respond along the lines of "I was campaigning for so and so...oh wait I probably shouldn't say the candidate... er I mean political work".

Let her think that she found out you vote Democrat. With women and egalitarians in general the better play is to make them think it was their doing.

I live in rural America where diesel mechanics currently make around $80k so I honestly don't know why so many White men even bother with this bullshit. Eventually the truth of human evolution will come out and these egalitarians will have a harder time convincing themselves that lying leads to progress. Until then Whites should find reliable sources of income. They should return to starting family businesses and not encouraging the rat race for their children.

That WOMEN gain the most from affirmative action, not just in colleges but in everywhere! This can all be traced to Title VII in 1964 civil rights act (and in turn to soviet communism). Women are in huge college and jobs admissions benefiting from affirmative action unnaturally far more than racial minorities ever could.

In terms of relative benefit by qualified applicants, yes, women have benefited substantially, but not more than Africans. In terms of relative numbers of qualified applicants and acceptance rate of unqualified applicants, Africans are way over the top.

85% of the veterinary students are now women. They have taken over the profession and higher education makes white males feel unwelcome most anywhere on campus outside LGBTPQP studies.

The most noteworthy things about the decisions are 1) the breakdown of the vote: 3 of 4 women voted to continue explicit racial preferences in Students for Fair Admissions v. University of North Carolina, whereas Jackson recused herself in Students for Fair Admissions v. Harvard, otherwise the vote would have been the same, and 2) the quality of the legal reasoning (or better the lack of it) in the dissents.

Today there are approx 25% more women than men attending law school — in 1970 it was 10:1 men — it is only a matter of time before the consequences of this play out in society, including judgeships.

I think ethnicity is more important than gender in this regard. Whites are still about 70% of enrollments at law schools, and also attend the higher tier/ranked law schools (Tier 1,2 and 3) at higher rates (75+%), which have higher post-graduation employment rates.

Women, African American students, and Hispanic students are disproportionately enrolled in lower-ranked schools with lower rates of bar passage and post-graduation employment. It is thus unclear to what extent the changing diversity of law students will translate into greater diversity in the legal profession.

Asian American enrollment has declined more steeply than any other group since the recession. As a result, the number of Asian American lawyers, after rising for four decades, will begin to stagnate in the year 2030.

Enrollment by Race/Ethnicity and Tier, 2019

I have also pointed out before, that Asians have lower first-time pass rates than Whites on the California bar exam, for example “One-fourth of all the lawyers are in just two states: New York (187,246 lawyers) and California (170,306 lawyers). Combined, they have 27% of the nation’s lawyers.”

I said this before and I will say this again. If I had my way, I would get rid of affirmative action in all areas with one key exception. I would have only black police officers in black neighborhoods and Hispanic police officers in Hispanic neighborhoods. Before you say that I am a bleeding heart liberal, remember that 100 years ago, whites would not have allowed black police officers or blacks in any position of authority administer their neighborhoods in any way.

One way for a Gentile White man to get into Harvard is to either be gay or pretend at being gay and concoct childhood persecution stories (e.g. savage beatings by rednecks wearing MAGA hats). If you were feeling adventurous you could pretend to also be Jewish . The Jewish part might be harder to pull off because (from what I hear) many of the admissions officers are Jewish. Unless you really did your homework they might be figure out that you were lying.

I always thought Black officers in Black areas was the best solution.

No need to worry about racist White police holding down Blacks and Black officers are known to be less lenient of certain nagging behaviors as they aren't as worried about ending up on CNN.

Only problem however is that there is a severe lack of them. Chicago hires White cops that can live 2-3 hours away in the burbs. They work a 4 10 and stay at a hotel. Kind of sad that they don't see their family during the week but that is race denial in America. An entire army of Whites commutes into Black areas to work certain jobs.

Chicago would happily hire more Black cops if the candidates were available. The cities run into the same supply and demand problem whereby qualified Blacks in the burbs can draw large salaries with AA points. Meaning they can have job security without risking getting shot in a city like Chicago.

Jewish Lawyers and the U.S. Legal Profession: the End of the Affair?

“In America law is king, and lawyers are high priests of a civic-religion, an aristocracy, members of a highly paid, well-regarded governing class. Unsurprisingly, the majority of American lawyers in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries were upper- and aspiring middle-class Protestants. At the turn of the twentieth century, however, waves of immigrants, Jewish and otherwise, aspiring to prove themselves as American and seeking elevated economic, social and cultural status, out of backbreaking blue-collar jobs and into the middle class flocked to law schools.” – pp. 12-13 PDF

“Tracking this evolving confluence of circumstances in the twenty-first century, the Confluence of Circumstances theory suggests that the affinity between Jews and the U.S. legal profession may be in decline. This, to be sure, does not mean that law practice is unwelcoming to Jews. Rather, the practice of law may no longer be a particularly attractive proposition for America's Jews. This development, however, may not be bad news for American Jews: law practice has run its course as a vehicle of positive social change for Jews as members of a previously excluded group who have succeeded in utilizing law and law practice to pursue the American Dream and have achieved elevated status, upper socioeconomic mobility, equality and justice.” – p. 46 PDF

>I think ethnicity is more important than gender in this regard.

If you think that, then you haven't been paying attention to how single and college educated white women vote (‘Among white women with a college degree, support for Biden was on par with support for Clinton in 2016, 59%-40% in 2020’). And how white women in political office behave (especially high political office). Or what kinds of Whites attend BLM and similar ‘protests’ (Elizabeth Sines of Sines v Kessler).

It's not only law school — women now significantly outnumber men in college generally — because women generally marry ‘up’, meaning they choose husbands who have greater SES than they do, large numbers of these women will not find suitable marriage partners, which will further sink marriage and birth rates among Whites.

It's a developing potential disaster for Western civilization (‘Do those subjective, informal, empathetic norms prevail?’).

There's a reason women were not allowed to have a say in political affairs in the West until relatively recently.

I'm not talking about office work. My experience is from trades, and blue-collar work. I think those are the areas where AA hit the earliest and the hardest, because that's where most minorities are found, the people affected are viewed as replaceable without issue, and the jobs of little importance.

Not everyone is suited to run a business or work as a skilled tradesman, but that is the advice that I give to my son if he doesn't want to go into engineering or STEM. He'll definitely go nowhere the military.

Anecdotal but perhaps indicative. When I applied to a handful of ivy-league schools 40-odd years ago, every admissions officer I had an interview with, without exception, was Jewish. My guess would be that, in the meantime, the number of non-Jewish whites in their admissions offices has been severely whittled down, their places taken by various POCs, while the Jewish core – including most actual decision-makers – has held steady or grown.

I confess I do not have statistics to substantiate my surmise, but looking at who the presidents and provosts of those schools are, and have been for decades now, it seems very likely. And would go a long way towards explaining Ron Unz's more controversial findings about ivy-league – especially Harvard – admissions.

The Jewish overrepresentation in the legal profession and in legal scholarship (particularly in the U.S.) over the past 100 years probably contributed to this negative public perception of the legal profession and the field of law (and (criminal) justice) in general...

In modern times, Jews reached prominence as judges in America: among them Brandeis, Cardozo and Felix Frankfurter. Ruth Bader Ginsburg was the first Jewish woman to be appointed to the Supreme Court. In Britain, between 1996 and 2008, two of Britain's three Lord Chief Justices were Jewish: Peter Taylor and Harry Woolf. In Germany in the early 1930s, though Jews were 0.7% of the population, they represented 16.6% of lawyers and judges.

the term “achievement quotient” to quantify Jewish achievement. As an example, an achievement quotient of 3 means that, in proportion to the population, they are three times more likely to have achieved. The following achievement quotients apply to Jews in the United States [...] Jews in the professions and academia. There is a large overrepresentation of Jews in the professions, with an achievement quotient of [...] 3.3 for lawyers [...] There is a disproportionate number of Jews on elite university faculties with an achievement quotient of 13.3 for law

Overrepresentation of students in Ivy League universities. In 1919 the percentage of Jewish students was 20% for Harvard, 13% for Yale, 20% for Brown, 25% for Pennsylvania, and 40% for Columbia. @Сергей Гончаров

Another pathetic nonsense coming from your nose.

Zionist do not care about technical education. They do not pay any attention to it.

These Elite Universities create philosophers, lawyers, and all kind of spiritual workers that will be part of the government.

Concerning affirmative action.

Republicans are going only half way to Zionist demands. That is absolutely unexpectable to Zionist.

Democrats are obeying dogs but they keep messing up whatever they touch.

So Zionist by affirmative action want to create pool of negros and females from which they can pick a totally robotic government controlled by AI. And then Zionist Job will be prefect with minimum effort.

@24th Alabama

Your statement:

“My unscientific guess is that NE Asians have an overall, average genetic superiority in math and spatial abilities, but that Caucasians, including South Asians, have more individuals clustered at the top percentiles. That distribution might explain the many mathematical and scientific achievements of Europeans.”

..bears further clarification.

Asians excel in their educational pursuits as in Asian households, education is highly valued. The “Tiger Mom” and a “B” grade being considered an Asian “F” grade are realities in Asian household and cultures.

That being said, Asians perform well in groups where consensus and cooperation are highly valued. Thinking “outside the box” is frowned upon, especially when it goes against the “grain” of the group.

A good example of conformism is that of Asian professional musicians. Although Asians can play a Mozart or Bach piece flawlessly and perfectly, quite often their performance lacks “soul”. You see, slight imperfections or exaggerations in a musical piece add emotion and “soul” to a performance, something that is lacking in many “perfect” performances by Asian musicians.

This is where Caucasian Whites have the advantage. Whites are more likely to take chances, don’t always conform to “group culture” and “groupthink” and DO take chances and think “outside the box”.

This in no way denigrates the many accomplishments and successes of Asians, but merely that there are cultural differences that come into play in every ethnic group.

Best regards,

Odds are Asians and Jews will get along, intermarry, and have mixed-race kids. They are probably already doing that — take Mark Zuckerberg and Priscilla Chan, for example.

Thanks. Interesting article with some good points, but I'm not sure I like the positive feedback loop that adds to existing inequality. I think he is a bit quick to equate wealth with value and ability.

As a bonus, I really liked the top rated comment there (from Brandon Berg).

Isn't it weird how denying evolution is low-status, but denying genetics is high-status?

The second highest rated comment there (from G.M. Baker) did a good job of expanding on part of what I was trying to say.
